OUR 67TH YEAR, NO. 38

Mrs. Odello speaks

Mrs. Emilio (Bruna) Odello thinks her family is being pressured to sell their land.

'They tell me it's really unique land, and then they say it's not worth anything'

By ROBERT MISKIMON

THE WAY BRUNA Odello sees it, the latest obstacles to development of the eastern 134 acres of the family artichoke ranch are really pressure tactics to force the sale of the land.

Mrs. Emilio Odello reflected this week on new restrictions on the use of the land from the proposed Carmel area Local Coastal Program and the county's flood control efforts.

The Local Coastal Program recommended recently by Coastal Commission staff would designate the eastern Odello lands as prime agricultural land and would wipe out the Odellos' plans for development on the parcel.

And a flood control study recently presented to the Monterey County Board of Supervisors said, in effect, that any development on the eastern Odello lands would require three to four feet of fill.

The alternative, according to George S. Nolte Co. engineers, might be to use the eastern Odello lands partially as a flood corridor spillway for the Carmel River, to protect already-developed land north of the river.

"We're at the mercy of individuals and commissions, and I don't think it's fair to be denied this way," Mrs. Odello told the Pine Cone/Outlook Monday.

The Local Coastal Program recommended by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors for adoption by the Coastal Commission would have permitted development of as many as 90 residential housing units on Odello east, plus as many as 157 motel units, a farmer's market and a restaurant.

But the Coastal Commission staff based its recommendation against any development on Odello east on a finding that the land represented prime agricultural soil.

"It really isn't prime agricultural land," Mrs. Odello protested. "The Coastal Commission staff broad-brushes things. They think that if anything is growing at all, it's prime agricultural land. But that doesn't make it prime agricultural land."

"The west side is better for farming than the eastern side. There's clay below the soil on the west. We've farmed it because we love the land and all we're asking is what's fair."

The eastern Odello land is currently farmed by Russell Wolter of Carmel Valley under a lease agreement with the Odellos. The Odello family farms artichokes on the western 150 acres through an agreement with the state. The western acreage was purchased by the State of California in 1974 for $1.7 million after a fund-raising effort spearheaded by the Odello Land Acquisition Fund, which contributed $300,000 toward the purchase. The city of Carmel gave $100,000.

THE ODELLOS never really wanted to develop the western portion of their land, but were forced to consider a high-density development because of rising taxes, which had made farming unprofitable, said Mrs. Odello.

And they would still like to continue farming on the eastern land, but feel they have been victimized by others' misguided sense of "planning" and outright selfishness, she said.

Teachers clarify position

Dear Editor:

Carmel teachers wish to clarify information printed in last week's Pine Cone/Outlook pertaining to the progress of negotiations between the Carmel teachers and the C.U.S.D. management team.

Teachers have been offered a salary raise of 4.8 percent plus 1 percent fringe benefits for a total package of 5.8 percent—not 8.5 percent as quoted in last week's article.

It is disconcerting to staff and misleading to our taxpayers and parents to have our administration continue to quote expenditures for a 12 percent across-the-board increase in the amount of $600,000 when teacher negotiators have agreed to accept an amount considerably less than this, leaving a reserve over $100,000.

The reserve teachers agreed to leave exceeds the ending balance already agreed upon by Pacific Grove School District with their teachers. This amount would not require cuts in programs, instructional materials or other budgeted expenses.

We have also requested reasonable contingencies to cover additional or unexpected income and/or overestimated expenses or errors in the budget.

The Carmel teachers have demonstrated their dedication to the community and to the students by returning to work without a contract. We expect our board and administration to support this commitment to education by loyal teachers. We expect a speedy conclusion to contract negotiations this week.

Rippling River conditions

Dear Editor:

1981 is the International Year for the Disabled, and I want you to know how it is being "celebrated" at Rippling River Center for the Handicapped in Carmel Valley.

Since being taken over by the Monterey County Housing Authority (Bruce Moore, Exec. Director), housekeeping and linen services have been eliminated, and so has the switchboard service. Meals have just been programmed for brunch at 10 a.m. and supper at 4 p.m., and if people are sick and require meals in their rooms, there will be a $5 service charge per tray.

The swimming pool, Mr. Moore tells us, is to be filled in. (I guess that's icing on the cake for this "Hotel for the Handicapped.") The "hotel" (headline quote from Pine Cone of 1/24/80) is slipping and the service is getting shoddy!

As for the handicapped, well, now, ain't that a shame! Guess they'll just have to make do or die—and I mean that literally. I know—I'm one of them, and I live at R.R.

Just wanted all you nice people out there—citizens, supervisors, planning commission, elected and appointed officials, etc.—to know what is going on and to get as angry as I am about the maneuverings of Mr. Moore, even if, like me, you can do nothing about it. And I hope you don't sleep any more comfortably in your beds than I do in mine! Upward and onward cost-effectiveness vs. people!

Tourists classified

Dear Editor:

My congratulations to John Eatherton for providing some definition to the character of our tourists as presented in his "Letter to the Editor" appearing in the Sept. 3 issue of the Pine Cone/Outlook.

As a long-time observer (early 20s) I have seen this fragmentation of our tourists into three distinct groups—which I will call "The Horde," "The Tourist" and "The Visitor."

The Horde would be better served at the Santa Cruz Beach and Boardwalk, and would be understood and welcome there. The Tourist contributes very little to the community and undoubtedly takes up time, space and services in excess of his contribution. The Visitor has long been with us and has traditionally blended into the life and style of Carmel and environs.

It appears that City Hall and the business community at large subscribe to the theory that if one is good, two must be better, and at some time have undertaken to see how many people can be crammed into a phone booth—or a Volkswagen Bug. Space is limited, why waste it? There is no solution to the parking problem because there is no space left.

Daily, I watch local business people and their employees park their cars in the residential area—one car, one person, no car pooling, no public transportation. These are followed by those attending local churches, the Carmel Foundation and such other activities and finding parking very nearly impossible. Then comes The Horde and The Tourist leaving nowhere for either The Visitor or the local resident.

I suggest that preferential parking in a rather extensive area of the residential community would greatly reduce this problem. Unless more parking space can be provided—which is an impossibility for the foreseeable future—reduction of demand remains the only viable alternative.

Agrees with editorial

Dear Editor:

Your editorial in Sept. 3 issue ("The Tragedy of Bill Peters") was superb.

I agree with you completely and find it surprising that the gentleman does not see that a resignation is in order.

Oops!

Dear Editor:

I have come to look forward to your weekly as a source for fine coverage of the local happenings and issues that concern us "here at home." It's good reading.

So, I was chagrined to find myself misquoted in your Sept. 10 issue. Please set the record straight. The Classified Employees of the Carmel Unified School District were offered a 4.8 percent plus 1 percent fringe to make a total of 5.8 percent, not 8.5 percent as your article stated!

There is no contract at the moment; we are still negotiating.

City to keep eye on Gamble property

"The highest and best use of that land is not to have 12 homes on it," said Carmel City Councilman Howard Brunn.

Carmel City Council members agreed with that assessment of the Gamble property, located between Dolores and Lincoln and 13th Avenue and Lucia Avenue on the southern edge of the city.

The council decided at its Sept. 8 meeting to inform the trust department of Crocker Bank of its interest in the final disposition of the land, and to express the hope that the 100-by-280 foot parcel would not be subdivided into 12 residential lots.

The property was owned by the late Elizabeth Gamble—granddaughter of Procter & Gamble co-founder James Gamble—who died July 1 at age 92. Councilman Mike Brown, for one, has expressed an interest in a possible purchase of the land by the city.

"Due to the complexity of the will and the number of beneficiaries, decisions affecting this property will not be made for at least nine months," City Administrator Doug Peterson informed the council.

The city's most recent land acquisition is the 40-by-100 foot Piccadilly property on Dolores between Ocean and 7th Avenue. It was purchased for $400,000 to be used as a park, but council members have received some criticism for authorization of $600,000 in land purchases within the last year.

All the residents in the area (of the Gamble property) are very concerned that the city is not interested in purchasing the property for a park," said Councilman Howard Brunn.

"That property is more valuable if it is down-zoned. The highest and best use is not to have 12 houses on it. Ideally, it would be a planned unit development. But it is possible they may never offer it for sale."

The property theoretically could be subdivided into 12 separate lots, with eight, 40-by-100 lots in the center of the property, and four, 60-by-100 lots on the four corners.

Councilwoman Helen Arnold moved to have the city explore what could be done to keep any future development of the property at a minimum density, and other council members agreed unanimously.

Subtle reminder of change of seasons

By AL EISNER

THE TRANSITION from summer to fall in Carmel is somewhat subtler than in other parts of the nation. The youngsters are off to school—as they are everywhere else. The Chamber Music Society and Symphony have announced their new seasons. But, because the fog has persisted into September, we can't use that as a guide to change of seasons.

Indeed, it was a bit of a shock to look at the calendar at breakfast the other day and realize Halloween is just around the corner. That means that Christmas can't be far behind.

The most obvious barometer of change for Carmelites, of course, is the availability of parking downtown. Now that the summer crowds have gone, there is plenty of space. . . to apprehensive Carmel merchants, maybe too many spaces.

High interest rates and a soft real estate market are creating major problems everywhere, but because of the desirability of the Carmel area, we have felt the impact much less.

The major cause of uncertainty in the Carmel/Carmel Valley area is the continued pressure for growth. The Carmel Valley Master Plan remains in limbo. The Fate of Local Coastal Plans for the Carmel Area and for Big Sur is uncertain. Carmel is finally tackling its woefully outdated General Plan.

The Mayor's Report

Mayor responds to 'Pine Cone' editorial

By BARNEY LAIOLO

The title of the Pine Cone editorial of Sept. 10 reads, "City's Problems Remain Unsolved Despite Illusion of Action."

I would like to respond to the article in my frame of reference. If one would check the record it will be found that in every instance of land purchase in the last 17 months, I vigorously opposed these expenditures, as it was my feeling that these monies would better be used for achieving some of the other projects mentioned in the article.

I think the public should be informed of the situation which existed on one piece of property, namely the two lots on the West side of Dolores between 4th and 5th Avenues, which was purchased before I came into office.

If you remember, the use of this piece of property was put to the vote of the people and approved for use as affordable housing for some of our citizens. There was an easement on this property which did not appear at the time of the closing of escrow. It came to light only when I began a study for developing an underground parking facility at this site. It has taken almost a year to get this matter cleared.

This easement involved moving two main water lines feeding Pebble Beach which existed on this property. (Incidentally, I would like to congratulate the foreman and all those involved in getting this work completed with a minimum of interruption and inconvenience to our citizens.) We will now be able to proceed with plans for this project.

The record will also show very clearly that I insisted that the purchase of Piccadilly be put to the vote of the people. There was an agreement and a date set to put this issue on the November ballot only to find that the other four councilpersons reversed their thinking and decided that they knew what was best for the community and voted to purchase the lot.

By the time this proposed 40 x 100 foot park is completed we will be very close to an expenditure of one-half million dollars. Wouldn't it have been much better to have

While it appears that we may at last get some action to assure adequate water supplies for the future, nobody is willing to say how we are going to pay for the improvements. Should people who live here now pay for it, or should connection fees for new construction be used?

There won't be any quick relief from our stubborn traffic problems on Highway 1 and at the intersection of Carmel Valley Road and Highway 1 because of serious lack of funds.

The Carmel Sanitary District is hung up on its plans for reclaiming water. It will be a long time until sewers are ever installed in Carmel Valley, and further growth will be impeded by the possibility that the quality of the groundwater could be endangered by septic seepage.

Yet, with all of this, most everyone I know feels better simply because the sun finally came out.

Life really is a lot simpler here, isn't it?

put this money towards a housing project of affordable housing and turning Carmel's Dust Bowl—the Sunset North Field—into a parking facility and park?

I also voted against the purchase of the second lot on Lincoln Street next to the proposed Library Annex at a cost of over $200,000.

With reference to parking, I'm happy to say that we are very close to being able to make decisions regarding a parking facility on the Lincoln Street site. This has been in negotiations for over four months.

The first step in the recreation program has taken place with the joint cooperation of the Carmel Unified School District and the City agreeing to move the weight lifting and body building equipment presently at Sunset to the portable classrooms above the swimming pool at the High School. I think that this recreation program will proceed now on a much more effective basis.

Mr. Eisner asks the question: "Can you say that you are better off than four years ago?" I can only remark on the last 19 months of that period. As we all know, bureaucracies move slowly but I do feel that for the short time I have been in office, that we are closer to completion of some of these projects.

I have been accused by some Councilpersons that I am not a good manager or leader. Just to clarify this statement, I owned and operated the Village Electric Shop on a continuous basis from 1944 to 1972 including as many as 14 employees at various times and gladly admit this was a very successful operation.

How many of the other Councilpersons can come close to this record? My theory of operation is not based on dreams but on just plain common sense.

I'm still smiling happily,

Mayor Barney

P.S. The last paragraph in Mr. Eisner's editorial refers to the need for more imaginative and resourceful people and I agree whole heartedly.

Mrs. Odello speaks out

"There was a comment made by a public official in Carmel that we were adequately compensated for the west side," Mrs. Odello said. "A lot of people don't know that we took $106,000 less than was offered by the state for that land. And we were promised a transfer of density credits to the eastern side, which has never happened."

"The taxes on the land and the fact that my husband was ill forced us to sell. Most people have some sort of retirement. With farming, there is no retirement. And farming isn't always lucrative because we can't spray always, and we're not near a source of labor."

'The Coastal Commission staff broad-brushes things. They think that if anything is growing at all, it's prime agricultural land.'

Mrs. Odello, a widow, shares the responsibilities for running the family farm with her brother-in-law, Bruno, and his two sons and her two daughters. The family's love of farming is rooted in a European love of the land mixed with a strong sense of independence, she explained.

"Our background isn't from charity," Mrs. Odello said. "You have to understand the old European traditions, and the desire to do it yourself."

She admits that the community uproar over purchase of the western Odello land eight years ago "left a bad taste" in her mouth.

"We said, 'Hey, wait a minute.' We had something we'd worked all these years for and everybody wanted to take it away. It kind of left us with a bad taste in our mouths."

Mrs. Odello is a devoutly Christian lady, who is active as a co-chairperson of the Carmel Mission Fiesta, and who has given her time for Christian education at the Carmel Mission for 20 years. She can not allow herself the "luxury" of getting angry about what's happened.

"I can't understand it when people get jealous if someone makes money, as we have, and has done it honestly. I'd like to know what the value of the land would be just on the other side of the river over in Mission Fields. I think this is just more pressure to force us to sell."

"They tell me it's really unique land, and then they say it's not worth anything. We don't want top dollar for our land, and we haven't even gotten to the stage where we could contemplate development of the eastern side. We don't have the money to develop it; we'd just like to know that we have the right to develop."

Mrs. Odello said the family was approached recently with an offer to purchase the eastern land for open space by the Big Sur Land Trust, but indicated nothing concrete has come out of that offer.

"All these people with all these ideas—I wonder how they would feel if this was done to them," she remarked. "Our family has been here for 57 years and we haven't taken away from the community, we've consistently contributed. I really feel that we've been victimized by other people's jealousy."

Mrs. Odello finds it ironic that the Coastal Commission staff found it proper to recommend development of 250 to 300 visitor-serving units just south of the Carmel River at the Hudson-Riley ranch area, but decided that development of Odello east would put too great a strain on Highway 1.

"I felt keenly when Carmel sat in judgment of what we were doing, as they jam-packed every lot in Carmel and filled it to capacity," she said. "If not another nail were pounded or another shovel of earth turned, then we'd all have to keep everything in open space."

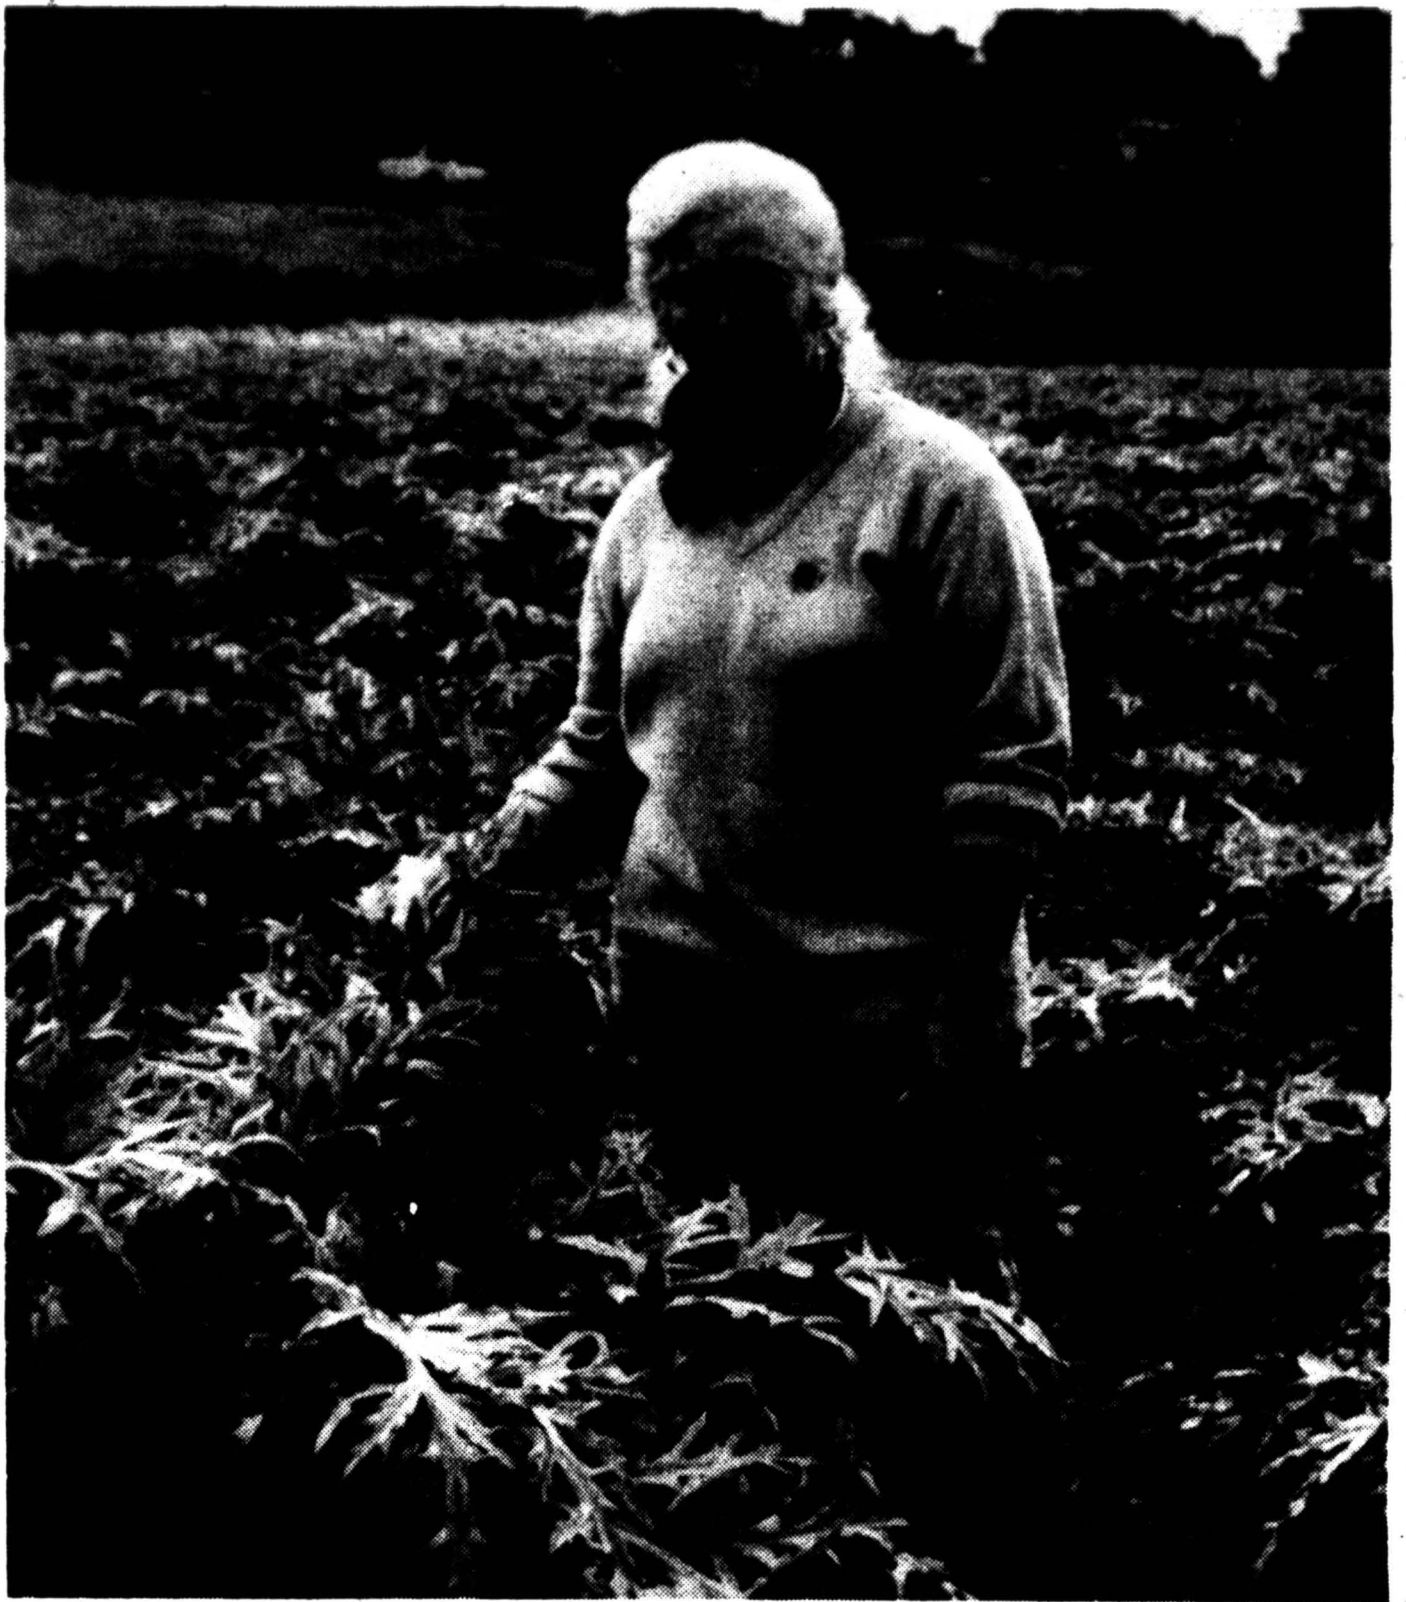

"But they're crucifying us, and the beat goes on with the building everywhere else, and it just isn't fair."

Mrs. Odello added the family was approached in 1958 to sell part of their land for development of Carmel Center, but they turned it down because they wanted to farm.

"We love farming and it was an honorable thing to do."

But even with continued pressures to sell their land, the Odellos remain resolute:

"There's a lot of loyalty and love that's tied to the land. I would no more think of moving than flying to the moon."

After councilman takes ride:

Police to get new cars this week

THE CARMEL police department expects delivery this week of four new patrol cars to replace the current fleet of cruisers which have been "pretty troublesome," according to Police Chief Bill Ellis.

The City Council, in a special meeting last Friday, voted unanimously to purchase an entirely new fleet of eight-cylinder Chevrolet Malibu police cars because of recurring mechanical problems with the city's 1980 Dodge Aspens.

Cost to the city will be $8,561 per vehicle, including the trade-in allowance and taxes. The city will purchase the new cars from Singleton Chevrolet in the Monterey Peninsula Auto Center.

The matter was brought to the council's attention by a recommendation from Police Chief Ellis, and after Councilman Mike Brown had ridden in a sputtering patrol car last week.

"Since April, the cost of upkeep and repairs to our present four vehicles amounted to $3,456," Chief Ellis told the council. "That's an average of $691 per month. This cost does not reflect normal operating expenditures."

Chief Ellis, at the direction of the council five months ago, explored the possible use of foreign cars for patrol duty, but said he could not recommend any foreign cars for Carmel's use.

"I can not recommend any foreign model that would meet our requirements due to size, lack of police safety specifications, base cost per unit, and the extra costs of maintenance and replacement parts," the police chief said.

The four Dodge Aspens which the city purchased in 1980 now have between 30,000 to 40,000 miles apiece but "normally we'd have about a third more mileage on our cars before we replaced them," Ellis said.

Only two of the old Aspens were on the road this week; the other two were in the shop for repairs. They have been plagued with problems such as hose leaks and malfunctioning catalytic converters, Ellis said.

"Consumer publications rate the Malibus very well," the chief said. "Other agencies which have used them say they're very pleased with them, too."

Title Co. goof costs $75,000

When the city of Carmel purchased two 4,000-square-foot lots near Dolores and 5th last year for $260,000, it got more than it bargained for.

Like two water mains, which crossed the property and which did not show up on property descriptions provided the city before purchase.

The city bought the property with the intention of someday constructing senior citizen housing, but the existence of the two water mains presented a costly obstacle.

A check with Founder's Title Co., which handled the paperwork for the transaction, revealed an error on the part of the title company—somebody had failed to tell the city of Carmel about the water mains.

Thus, re-routing of the water mains, which is the responsibility of California-American Water Co., was completed last week at a cost of $75,000 to the Founder's Title Co.

Work on re-routing of the water mains was performed by Granite Construction Co. of Monterey. There was no cost to the city of Carmel.

WORKERS completed relocation of two water mains this week from property the city of Carmel recently purchased at Dolores and

Fifth, at the expense of Title Insurance Co. of Monterey. The title company failed to point out before the city's purchase that the two water mains crossed the property. (Alan McEwen photo).

Building heights in annexed areas aired Oct. 5

The Carmel City Council will hold a public hearing Oct. 5 on a proposed one-year moratorium which would restrict building height limits in annexed areas of the city.

The measure, to be introduced as an urgency ordinance, is to be prepared by City Attorney George Brehmer. It is intended to establish the city's basic 24-foot residential building height limit in annexed areas still under the county's 30-foot height limit.

The measure also would provide that new construction in annexed areas of Carmel still under county building standards be subject to design review by the Carmel Planning Commission until the general plan revision is completed, said City Administrator Doug Peterson.

Concern was generated by Councilwoman Helen Arnold at the Sept. 8 council meeting. She told her colleagues about a home under construction on Franciscan Way near Dolores Street which is 27 feet high.

The council now wants to know if residents in surrounding areas are as concerned about the less restrictive county building height limits, before passage of another urgency moratorium.

"The county standards are still in effect until our general plan is revised and put into effect," Peterson explained. "The discrepancy is between the city's building heights and the county's; plus, there are differences in how the county and city measure the height."

Portions of Carmel which are of primary concern to the council are those small lot subdivisions which have been annexed since the early 1960s, located mostly on the southern and eastern fringes of the city, Peterson said.

"It is the feeling of the staff that these properties should be set up as separate zoning districts within the city, with all requirements included within the city's code, rather than the current practice which requires reference to county documents," Peterson told the council last week.

"When this action is taken, the current county requirements, the city's requirement or some combination could be selected as the appropriate regulation."

PETERSON OUTLINED three alternatives for the council:

- Await completion of the general plan revision and passage of new zoning ordinances in summer or fall of 1982. That course of action would not produce any immediate effect on building heights in annexed areas, Peterson said.

- Enact a moratorium "requiring conformance to city height requirements and design study requirements within the annexed areas pending completion of the general plan revision." Before taking that course, the council would have to determine whether the "seriousness or immediacy" of the problem warrants special treatment, Peterson said.

- Ask the planning commission to study and revise the zoning requirements in the annexed areas, and to produce ordinances for the necessary changes. That alternative would take less time than waiting for general plan revisions, but would impose additional work on city staff, Peterson noted.

Before it can enact an urgency moratorium, the council must make a determination that there is some kind of "emergency" which requires an ordinance, according to City Attorney George Brehmer.

Carmel Sanitary District to press for consolidation

THE CARMEL SANITARY District board of directors will consider adoption of its own position paper on a proposed consolidation with the Pebble Beach Sanitary District when it meets at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 17 in Carmel City Hall.

The Monterey County Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) is to consider the proposed merger Sept. 29. At the same time, LAFCO will consider a request by the Pebble Beach Sanitary District to merge sewage and fire services in Pebble Beach into a single district.

In a recent position paper, the board of directors of the Pebble Beach Sanitary District expressed its opposition to the proposed merger of the two districts.

Carmel Sanitary District Manager Mike Zambory has prepared the position paper at the direction of, and with the cooperation of, the board of directors. It will attempt to answer some of the statements in the Pebble Beach paper which Zambory called "misleading."

In other business, the board will review a letter from the Regional Water Quality Control Board which authorizes a separation of part of a $10 million grant from the Carmel district to the Pebble Beach district.

The Pebble Beach Sanitary District asked the Carmel board last month for agreement to have pipeline and pumping station work funded separately, but the Carmel board wanted more information before it acted.

"There has been a grant administration decision to split the Pebble Beach portion of the Carmel clean water project and treat it as an individual project," wrote Kenneth Jones, director of the Regional Water Quality Control Board in San Luis Obispo.

"This is for pump work affecting the Pebble Beach system only. The contract administration for this project was becoming too cumbersome. The decision will not affect the total eligible cost or the priority rating for the Carmel project."

Zambory said the amount of money involved is about $550,000, and it was included as part of the Carmel district's grant for a wastewater reclamation project. It is not known whether the separation of the two grants would reduce the amount of the Carmel grant accordingly, Zambory said.

Directors will also receive a letter from two employees who wish to drop efforts to create an employees' bargaining unit. Bill Lang and David Solliid wrote:

"We have found it to be in our best interests to continue on an informal basis for negotiations on salaries and benefits. We desire to immediately rescind our request to be formally recognized by you, the board of directors of the district as a formal employees' association."

However, the two asked to be recognized by the board as representatives of the 20 blue collar workers of the district.

'This is a step in the wrong direction. The first thing you should decide is, who is going to pay for that dam?'

absent—defeated 4-2 his proposal for a small dam of 20,000 to 25,000 acre feet storage capacity.

"I went through the same experience with the Zone 11 Water District," Lee said. "It takes them time to make up their mind. I am optimistic we will have a majority of this board."

"I see no reason why the board shouldn't have all the information they need before we have a new board in November."

Directors agreed to hold a special meeting before the regular Oct. 12 meeting to study proposed dam sizes, required water releases to maintain healthy steelhead populations in the Carmel River, and costs.

Director John Williams called Lee's motion to proceed with plans for a small dam "premature because it makes the assumption that a scheme for protecting the fish with a dam this size will be acceptable to the State Water Resources Control Board."

The board also received a fisheries study from consultant Donald Kelley of Sacramento to which details three alternatives for preservation of the fisheries on the Carmel River. But manager Bruce Buel said he had not had time to analyze the information in the Kelley report and could not make a recommendation.

"To me, the exciting thing about the Kelley report is that the fisheries can be preserved with flows half of what we thought," Lee said. This tends to support his argument for a small dam, Lee added.

"I don't feel it's a defeat at all. By next month we will have an agreement on the size of a dam."

Director Gerald Fry was the only other member of the board who supported Lee's motion.

"A dam is to protect the aquifer," Fry said. "A dam would give us a little measure of safety."

LEE SAID DELAYS in deciding the size of a dam only increase its eventual cost. He estimated that $4.5 million would be added to the cost of a $30 million dam for each year of delay.

"Sixteen years ago, the cheapest source of water was wells in Carmel Valley," Lee said. "There may be an additional cost to those wells we don't know about. We may have to line those river banks with concrete."

Earl Moser of Carmel told the board it should consider carefully all aspects—especially costs—before proceeding with a dam.

"I feel this is a step in the wrong direction before all the facts are in," Moser said. "If you pass this, you are saying you will build a dam to provide for future people. The first thing you should decide is, who is going to pay for that dam?"

"A $30 million dam will cost each present water meter holder $100 per year. People in the future should pay at least three-fourths of that dam's cost."

Carmel attorney Alexander ("Zan") Henson also urged the board to go slowly on a dam decision.

"There are two very sound reasons for not going forward with this proposal," Henson said. "First you need to develop the economic information on costs. We have to look at the Monterey Peninsula as a discrete economic unit. Aren't we taking a shot in the dark until we know what the fish requirements are?"

Director William Peters of Carmel Valley said the board was "clearly divided on whether the dam is the right or wrong solution to the water supply problem."

"I think it's premature. I'm willing to pursue the research requirements Kelley is proposing for fisheries."

Council nixes art sales from second-floor studios

By ROBERT MISKIMON

SHOULD CARMEL allow artists to live in and sell their work from second-floor apartments in the commercial district?

The City Council doesn't think so.

Councilman Mike Brown tried but failed to gain consensus among fellow council members at the Sept. 8 meeting for revision of the zoning ordinance to permit those kinds of uses.

Artist Jack Wall, who lives in a second-floor apartment near Fourth and San Carlos, was denied permission by the Business License Review Board to use his apartment to sell paintings.

Council members had expressed a desire to consider possible modification of the zoning ordinance at their last meeting, but balked at a lengthy report from City Attorney George Brehmer which recommended against it.

An ordinance adopted two years ago prohibits all retail uses on the second floor of buildings in the commercial district, but Councilman Brown argued in favor of sending the matter to the planning commission for review and possible revision to allow artists to sell their works from second-floor apartments.

"I don't want to be closed on this," Brown said. "The planning commission may say it's workable, or not workable. I hope we can at least ask them to look at it."

But Councilman Howard Brunn said the matter looked like "a real can of worms," and recommended no action on the request. Other council members agreed and Brown's proposal died.

IN HIS ANALYSIS, Brehmer said: "If retail sales are allowed from one apartment in a district, they must be allowed from all apartments similarly situated in the same district." Some of the questions which would be posed by the revision, according to the city attorney:

- What is "art" to be sold from a second-floor apartment?

ARTIST Jack Wall would like to be able to sell his art works from his second-floor apartment in Carmel, but the city won't consider allowing that kind of use in the commercial district. Wall uses stuffed birds, like this ring-necked pheasant, and photographs of wild birds to achieve realism. (Alan McEwen photo)

- How much would allowing retail sales from an apartment in the commercial district decrease the residential character of the apartments in that area?
- Would allowing retail sales from apartments in commercial districts be consistent with the preamble to the Carmel Zoning Code?
- Would allowing retail sales from apartments tend to increase the rents asked for apartments in the commercial district?
- Would such space be open to the public or be open on an invitation-only basis?

Brehmer recommended against the change "because it weakens arguments in defense of the preamble to the city's zoning and it will complicate zoning enforcement."

But Brown finds a glaring irony in the fact that Carmel, which prides itself as an artists' colony, is unwilling even to consider making a special allowance for local artists.

"When we passed the ordinance two years ago, we may have failed to address this issue," Brown told the Pine Cone/Outlook. "For artists who are not internationally known, this is how they make their works available to the public."

"There are a lot of reasons not to do it, but there are some good reasons to do it," Brown said.

JACK WALL, the 64-year-old painter whose request triggered the controversy, feels let down by it all.

"It's very disappointing, because the way I make a living is through my paintings. It's my home and my studio," he said of the 9-by-12-foot apartment he has lived in for the last four years. Wall has had a career as an illustrator, and currently does watercolors of birds.

"I'm on Social Security," he noted. "I use my income from the paintings to supplement my income. I'm in a commercial zone and I have a sales license, but I can't sell on the second floor. I'm not a retail shop."

Wall said fears that hordes of people would come and go on a regular basis if he were allowed to sell his paintings from his apartment are unfounded, since he doesn't sell that many paintings.

"There's no way people would be mobbing up here," Wall said. "I guess I'll try to find a gallery to sell my stuff. But it's a lot slower in a gallery, if you can find one."

Wall says he understands the reason the city wanted an ordinance against second-floor retail businesses.

"They're afraid people would turn a place into a gallery or a gift shop. They need to do anything they can to stop that. But I'm also in favor of being able to sell a few paintings from a second-floor apartment."

Councilman Brown said the question is a dead issue, so far as he is concerned, unless someone else wants to bring it up.

"I've done everything I can," Brown said. "Now I know how a kamikaze pilot must feel—going down fast."

Five file for two school board slots

Five persons have filed as candidates for two, four-year terms of office on the Board of Education of the Carmel Unified School District in the Nov. 3 election.

They are incumbent Doyle Clayton of Carmel Valley; C. Jonathan Shoemaker, Lynn Brooks, Joan Cathey, and William Sanford, all of Carmel. The two seats which will be filled are those now occupied by Clayton and Elizabeth Bell.

Nomination deadline for candidates closed Aug. 27.

County worried about vista points on Grade

THE MONTEREY COUNTY Planning Commission will consider Oct. 14 possible elimination of vista points and parking areas on Laureles Grade Road.

The Board of Supervisors referred to the planning commission a report from county public works director Bruce McClain which cites the need for some clear policy on public access areas.

Plan lines are needed to guide future road improvements as well as future development in the area, McClain told the supervisors.

There have been complaints from adjoining property owners about some uses of the Laureles Grade right-of-way and Monterey County was named in a $1 million lawsuit which arose from injuries received by a person sleeping in one parking area.

"There are 15 identifiable areas within the right-of-way beyond the normal shoulder areas which are being used for parking," McClain told supervisors.

"Their existence is important for emergency parking purposes since most of the road shoulders are too narrow for safe vehicular parking."

The parking areas are sometimes used by county public works crews, as well as by utility maintenance crews, and for parking of truck-trailers, McClain said.

Ten of the parking areas are used as "vista points," and four of those have been the source of most of the complaints, he said. Although the $1 million lawsuit against the county by an injured pedestrian was settled out of court, the public works department alone spent more than $1,000 investigating the case and providing material for the county's defense.

The parking area just south of Highway 68—the source of the lawsuit against the county—has been split into three parts, with the northerly part involved in a right-of-way exchange, the center now used as a state park-and-ride lot, and the third still used for "informal parking," McClain said.

"While Laureles Grade Road is unique in that it was the state's first scenic highway, it is not unique in attracting complaints about parked vehicles," the public works director said.

IN RESPONSE to complaints from adjacent property owners, the Board of Supervisors has prohibited parking on other county roads, and property owners in the unincorporated Carmel and Aquajito areas recently requested similar parking prohibitions.

If the public works department were to curtail parking on the three major vista points on Laureles Grade Road, the procedure would be to install a combination ditch and dirt berm beyond the pavement, McClain suggested.

This would permit parallel parking but would inhibit other parking, he said.

"While this type of installation controls normal automobile parking, it presents a challenge to four-wheel drive vehicles and motorcycles who often take over exclusive use of the area since it is no longer open to routine patrol by the sheriff or Highway Patrol," McClain said.

"After adoption of plan lines we would be able to identify rights-of-way which are truly surplus and consider the sale of such property to abutting owners."

Fifth District Supervisor William Peters of Carmel Valley said the county should decide whether to eliminate or upgrade the access points, and moved to refer the matter to the planning commission for review and a recommendation to supervisors.

The board agreed and voted unanimously to support Peters' motion.

Business Beat

New police officers

aware of need for P.R.

By FLORENCE MASON

IN THE CARMEL Police Department, the primary concern is law and order, but there is an unmistakable emphasis on public relations—for the city, the business community, visitors and residents (not necessarily in that order). The three most recent additions to the department take their public relations role seriously, and cheerfully.

Two of our subjects are traffic control officers and one is a desk officer. The latter is tall, attractive Rita Williams.

Ms. Williams says she has come from "all over." Not so far away at that. Married in 1961 in San Jose, she and her husband moved to Hollister because they wanted to have some land. After her divorce, Ms. Williams got a job with the San Benito County Sheriff's Department as "matron, clerk, records security, in charge of women prisoners. Everything!" She held that job for six years and loved it, leaving only when a change in staff and a resulting change in her schedule meant less job satisfaction.

Her next job was still in the communications field, and it, too, covered a great variety of tasks: at Valley Communications in Salinas she did office work, dispatching and payroll. Also a new task: she was parts manager for the firm, which makes two-way radios. When work there slowed up, she stayed in communications as dispatcher and scheduler for a firm in San Jose. As she said, "I've always been in communications, including the fixing end of it."

Ms. Williams became a desk officer in Carmel in August. "They do everything differently here—so efficiently! It's the most efficiently run, well-organized place I've ever worked... it's beautiful. People here are wonderful too—considerate, patient. It's like a big family." Looking through the glass doors toward the south and Carmel Valley she added, "You couldn't find a more beautiful spot in which to work!"

Her only concern is the small problem of finding a place to park her car, especially when she comes on duty at 4 p.m. on Saturdays. (Police Department employees too?) Also new for her: she handles traffic collisions, or the effects of same. When she worked with the sheriff's department, they were always given to other jurisdictions. Oh, yes, and one other thing—"No street numbers in Carmel! That takes some getting used to."

Computers aren't new to her, however, nor is the variety she finds on this job. Along the way in previous jobs she even used to go on autopsies ("just to learn more") and she achieved certification as an Emergency Medical Technician.

Off the job, her enthusiasm is for "anything to do with horses," which she rides and enjoys watching when they race. Motorcycles, too. Ms. Williams lives in Monterey with her parents for the present. She has two children in their late teens who live and work in Hollister, on their own. Perhaps as independent, capable and versatile as their mother?

PAT NOEL is the shorter of the two new traffic control officers.

Mrs. Noel (whose husband, David, is an officer with the Del Rey Oaks Police Department) started with Carmel in June. Until now, she had played the game of career "by ear." She has lived between here and Gilroy all her life, graduating from Monterey High in 1969.

She worked as a teacher's aide at Foothill School in Monterey and then for about nine months in sales and service at the Talbott Ties plant. She and her husband had a friend who knew a Carmel police officer and through him they learned about this opening. She applied because she likes the outdoors, and she enjoys working with the public.

New traffic control officers are given two weeks' training in their own Cushman scooters, following a senior officer as she goes about her rounds. "It is just what I expected," she said. "It is public relations, mostly. I feel as though I represent the city."

Mrs. Noel is also training—one night each week—to be a relief desk officer. "I might be interested in that, eventually, as a full-time job," she said.

The traffic control officers' authority is limited to parking; they can't do anything about moving violations (except perhaps to let the regular police officers know).

Mrs. Noel felt that she was on top of her job by the second week but still learns something new every day. She also feels secure. When there is a particularly irate recipient of a ticket, she can call an officer for back-up and he is right there "in a few seconds."

One of her touchiest problems is caused by people who erase marks on their tires ("roll-overs"). "I usually advise people about the fine, which is $50. I warn them, make them aware, at least the first time it happens."

Does she like the job? "Oh, yes!" and a big smile supports the enthusiasm in her voice. She is especially aware of the contribution she can make to local business by keeping the traffic moving, giving more people more opportunity to stop and shop.

She also answers lots of questions. Some of her knowledge about local landmarks and attractions comes from the time, during high school, when she worked at local theaters. She has been asked what the lake is at the bottom of the hill and also which way is the ocean. She takes these questions seriously.

The tour bus situation in Carmel? Mrs. Noel believes that companies should take the responsibility and inform their drivers of Carmel's very specific rules and regulations. "Some of the companies are very good about it," she said, citing Greyhound in particular.

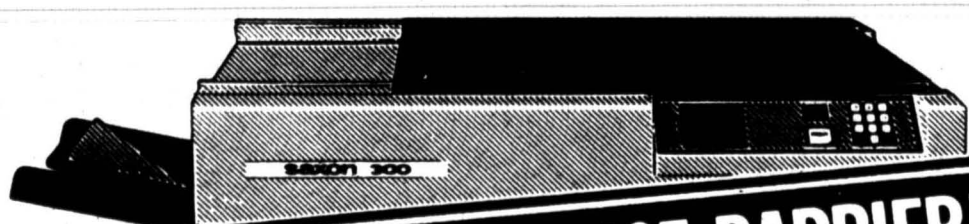

Mrs. Noel and her husband live in Pacific Grove; she has two children by a previous marriage. She also prefers the outdoors for leisure activity, especially camping and fishing. When she can't be outside, she enjoys sewing and decorating cakes.

The initial impression one may have of shyness is tempered by an impression that there is a great deal of competence and strength in the rather small person of Traffic Control Officer Pat Noel.

other career. At least not since her brother, a guard at Soledad Prison, brought home some books on police work. It was a natural interest for her then and it held up through her high school studies—including a class in police science that met at the Monterey Police Department and her experience in the police cadet program in Seaside.

She was a dispatcher for Monterey County, handling police, fire and ambulance calls, but was attracted to Carmel and the work as a traffic control officer because it meant working out of doors and meeting people face to face.

"I love it!" she said. "The job is nice and the people are great. I had my first 'yeller' last week...he threatened to take me to court, to report me to the chief. But you just have to expect that."

Mrs. Bitter is tall and slim, with shining, long brown hair and a pleasant manner that one guesses will be sustained, no matter what the provocation.

She sees the essence of her job as keeping traffic going, in spite of the many difficulties. It is enough of a job for her, at least for the present. She hasn't any interest in training to be a police officer. "It's too difficult for me. I see what my husband goes through (Doug Bitter, an officer with the Monterey Police Department); it's hard enough having to give a ticket to someone."

July was a very special month for MaryAnn Bitter: she was married, and she took his new job. The couple lives in Pacific Grove and one of their favorite pastimes is walking along the ocean.

Because they both have jobs they enjoy, they expect to be in the area for some time. Mrs. Bitter has had some new experiences here: Learning to handle the "stick" for the first time on her scooter ("the scary part is having to make a U-turn on a hill!"); trying to do her job when the truck congestion makes it nearly impossible. But she calls the Cushman's "neat, comfortable—and different." She was pleased to learn that the city's traffic committee, at the request of the City Council, will take up the problem of the trucks in the near future.

CITY COUNCILMAN Howard Brunn, who says he is no longer a businessman (but who has been, among other things, part owner of the Carmel Bay Company), said: "They are some of the best public relations people the city employs—always cheerful, smiling and helpful. They help to keep the parking spaces available for the people who should be using them—namely, the customers."

Later in the same day, at a joint meeting of the City Council and the traffic committee, Brunn urged the committee to come up with some recommendations on the problem of the trucks, the same problem mentioned by MaryAnn Bitter. He called it "solvable, but not easy," saying that both the truckers and the business people will have to "give."

Nell Lohr, after complimenting the Police Department on their quick response and helpfulness ("They are on the job, right now!") was even more vehement about the traffic problems. "People don't have time to shop," she said. "They have to rush out to move their cars. I don't believe in multi-level, big-city parking but we do need some respectable-looking lots here in Carmel. We could get the costs back by charging for the parking."

While deploring the fact that the time limits for parking are so brief, Mrs. Lohr, (owner of Nell's Plum Tree on Dolores) acknowledged that the traffic control officers do keep people from parking all day, which would keep the number of people who can shop to a minimum.

Bob Bailey, owner of The Mole Hole, and a former president of the Carmel Business Association, complimented the traffic control officers. "They are dedicated," he said, "very much on the job."

Then he went on with some obviously strongly-felt observations and opinions about the traffic situation in Carmel, in general.

"My one observation," he said, "is that the police officers ride in their cars too much. I would love to see one at a busy intersection, keeping traffic going, relieving the points of congestion. Or patrolling Ocean Avenue on foot. Much could be done to improve the flow of traffic."

"On the other hand, we hear criticisms all the time by customers who may be ticketed. An hour really isn't enough time for them and sometimes they walk out because of their fear of getting a ticket."

"On the other hand, we hear criticisms all the time by customers who may be ticketed. An hour really isn't enough time for them and sometimes they walk out because of their fear of getting a ticket."

Do we need more long-term parking in Carmel?
"Absolutely!"

Pine WhispersTor House Festival

to include gala
champagne reception

By TERRI LEE ROBBE

THERE'S A FESTIVE feeling in the air as the third annual Robinson Jeffers Tor House Festival approaches. The event will be held Oct. 3 and 4, and one very special lady who will participate in the two-day affair is Dame Judith Anderson.

Dame Judith was a close friend of Carmel poet Robinson Jeffers and Mrs. Jeffers for many years. At her request, he wrote the play Medea for her, so naturally she will appear in person for the world premiere theater screening of the "made for television" movie of Medea, which will be screened at the Santa Catalina School Performing Arts Center in Monterey at 8 p.m. on Oct. 3.

The screening will follow a special champagne reception at Tor House at which Dame Judith will give a reading of Jeffers' works.

Richard Tevis, executive vice-president of the Tor House Foundation, tells me that the reception will be extra special this year. Not only will the Greek supper be prepared by Anthony Petroustas (an authentic Greek who owns and operates the Windmill Restaurant in Watsonville), but to add to the atmosphere guests will be entertained by strolling Greek musicians.

The champagne reception is being coordinated by Amanda Baker who will be assisted by Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mrs. Will Shaw, Mrs. Robert Ferguson, Mrs. Donald Borden and Mrs. Henry Hoppin.

The Saturday (Oct. 3) program will include tours of Tor House, Hawk Tower and the gardens; seminars on Jeffers' poetry at La Playa Hotel, films on Jeffers and a poetry walk from La Playa to Monastery Beach.

The Sunday program will include a special seminar led by Dr. Lawrence Clark Powell—recipient of the 1981 Tor House Award—a picnic on the gardens of La Playa and tours of Tor House.

P.S.: The only existing print of the Medea movie is owned by the Tor House Foundation—which makes it special indeed! And, of course, the Greek theme of the reception is to enhance the fact that Medea is a Greek tragedy.

As an admirer of both Jeffers' works and Dame Judith, I could ramble on forever, but suffice it to say that there's still time to make reservations for one or all events—just phone 624-1813.

STILLWATER YACHT CLUB REGATTA —SUMMER FUN

THE LABOR DAY weekend may have signaled the end of "summer fun" but members of the Stillwater Yacht Club have happy memories of their recent 32nd Annual Mercury Labor Day Regatta, co-hosted by the Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club and held this year on Monterey Bay.

Following a day of racing on Saturday, Sept. 5, in which approximately 40 Mercurys participated, the group gathered at Indian Village in Del Monte Forest for a barbecue/picnic.

Head chef, making sure the steaks were cooked just right, was Pat Bradley who was assisted by his wife, Bobette, and also Harvey Kilpatrick, Jack McAleer, Dick Clark, Wendy and Tom Duffy and Mikki McLean. And there was no lack of beer and wine!

Others attending the picnic included Commodore Clint Harvey and wife, Fran; Vice-Commodore Don McLean; Helen and Gordon Craig; Betty and George Yates; Connie and Jack Riggan; Sue and Ellie Wood; Leonardo and Kathleen Marelich; Court Hanson and many others.

Racing was resumed on Sunday, followed by a champagne windup of events and presentation of awards at the Monterey Peninsula Yacht Club.

Naturally, no one wanted to see the party end, so later in the evening the group enjoyed a country western dinner dance at The Club.

THE HOPKINS FAMILY IS HOME FROM IRELAND

JAMES AND MONA Hopkins and two of their children, Daniel, 12 and Lorraine, 7, are home following a vacation to Ireland where, said Mona, they did over 2,500 miles of touring!

Mona has many relatives and friends in Ireland and has visited the country five times, but this was the first trip in 12 years. Her long-time dream has been to own a second home in Sligo (also called Yeats Country) overlooking Lough Gill, one of the lakes at Sligo. You've already figured it out, right? Mona said they found the perfect house, and if all goes well Hopkinsons will spend part of each year in the land of wee leprechauns.

This was the first trip to Ireland for James and the children, and Dan and Lorraine especially enjoyed the castles, abbeys and various ruins. "James just plain loved it," added Mona. "Our bodies are back home in Carmel but methinks our spirits remained in Ireland."

The Hopkinsons also returned home loaded down with treasures of crafts and beautiful crystal which Mona said they purchased for a song.

The family has lived in Carmel for the past nine years and named their home "Isle of Innisfree," which, said Mona, "is also within the lakes of Sligo." Now they have to come up with an exciting name for their new home.

Mona said the food, especially salmon and various other fish, was delicious and that an Irish breakfast will easily keep you going until dinnertime.

One thing Mona was determined not to forget to mention was the hospitality of the Irish people. "The people are just beyond words and it comes so natural to them," she said. "I'm already impatient to return."

You've convinced us, Mona—now can we come visit?

CAKES AND CARS FOR ALEXANDER CHIAPPE

ALEXANDER and Georgette Chiappe have their own little piece of Italy right here in Carmel Valley.

Alexander, who studied pastry decorating at night school in Italy, has turned his knowledge into a delightful hobby—he is now a masterful innovator of wedding cakes! And, if roses and vines and swans aren't enough, and it's your birthday or anniversary, you just might get a banana-nut-zucchini cake filled with custard and delivered in Alexander's 1925 Flint—he's also an antique car collector!

See how Carmel influences people?

"TABLE MANNERS" EXHIBIT A HUGE SUCCESS

PRESIDENT AND Nancy Reagan aren't the only people who have the best of "Table Manners" (the firm of Table Manners Inc., Los Angeles, was selected by the First Lady to manufacture table linens for the state dining room).

Jade Dynasty, located at The Lodge at Pebble Beach, carried Table Manners products and invited guests to a "BYOP BRUNCH" and table setting exhibit at the shop on Sept. 14.

President of Table Manners, Roberta Rogo, flew up from Los Angeles to demonstrate proper use of the various items.

And, although those attending had an enjoyable afternoon, the really nice thing about the affair is that ten percent of all purchases made that day will be donated to the Monterey International Studies. The $5 fee per person was also donated to the Institute.

A FAREWELL TO JOSEPH HIRSHHORN

ALTHOUGH I'M BEGINNING to feel like a native Carmelite, I still talk about the old home town of Naples, Fla.—this time with a touch of sadness—my friend Joe Hirshhorn died of a heart attack Aug. 31.

Although Joe and his wife, Olga, have homes in various parts of the country, they spent much of their time at their Naples residence. And when the art season rolled around, the couple would trek from opening to opening, chat with friends, and as usual as not, Joe would end up with a painting or two. And although he's been known to pay millions for a work of art, he also enjoyed meeting and viewing the works of young, upcoming artists and sculptors and bought many pieces in the $200 or so range.

Joe also loved parties. I remember once when he found a Mexican dish on the buffet table prepared by hostess Heinie Greenwood—Joe spent the evening sneaking "one more bite before I take Olga dancing."

Small in stature, Joe was a giant of a man. If he spotted someone at a party who seemed uncomfortable or out of the conversation, he made it a point to go right up to that person, introduce himself and get a conversation going. He would pull his chair up within inches of the other person and give any topic of talk his full attention.

Joe left a legacy to all of us. His huge art and sculpture collection was installed in the Smithsonian Institution's Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden in 1974. The collection numbered more than 6,000 pieces including 17 Rodins, 13 Picassos and many Moores, Daumiers, Giacomettis, Matisses, Calders as well as numerous other major pieces. Now I'm told that his entire private collection and $5 million has been left to the museum that bears his name.

A few calls to Naples and another to Olga at her New York apartment bears out one simple fact—Joe will be missed!

MARIA GIORDANO RECEIVES TWO SCHOLARSHIPS

Congratulations to Maria Giordano who is the recipient of two scholarships. The Carmel American Legion Post 512 presented Maria with the Charles M. Childers Scholarship award in the amount of $1,500 for her essay, Patriotism. Maria was also selected by the Scholarship Committee of Carmel High School to receive the David L. Ferguson Award of $700 for scholarship achievement.

Maria is the youngest of four children of Dr. Al Giordano and the late Jackie Giordano. During the summer she has been employed by Dr. George Bishop's Carmel Center Animal Hospital and will leave this week for the University of California, Davis, where she will start her first step towards her career goal of veterinary medicine.

Women and flowers—not always!

Women and flowers? Not always—as proved by the Plant Sale held in front of Longs Drug Store last Saturday.

The event, which offered the public a choice of more than 700 plants (over 200 varieties) was staged by the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of the Men's Garden Clubs of America.

The local club was formed in 1968 and Emil C. Schmidt, who is one of the two remaining charter members, was happily helping customers select plants at the sale.

hobby and small business said that the club gives him an outlet for something which he truly enjoys.

Do the wives help out? Emil replied: "They sure do. Us old guys have lead knees, so they have to do the stooping and weeding for us. And there's usually more females than males at our regular monthly meetings."

"That's exactly why I joined," piped in Frank Adams of Carmel Valley. "The ladies serve us refreshments, help with the planting—I don't think we could manage without them."

Fred Bell, a past president of the club and editor of the club's monthly bulletin, El Fimo De Tora, also helped at the sale.

Fred explained that the sale is held twice each year, spring and fall, and that all proceeds go to the club's various charitable and horticultural research programs.

"At present we're completing the landscaping of the Blind Service Center on Laurel Avenue in Pacific Grove," he said.

Fred said that the Center is the Garden Club's main project now and that it's a very unusual one.

"All the Lions Clubs of the Peninsula got together and bought the property (the Odd Fellows Hall in Pacific Grove)," Fred explained. "They improved the property and now lease it to the Blind Center for $1 a year. It's a very worthwhile project."

About a dozen of the club's 38 members worked the sale, including club secretary, George Webster, who said that the favorite sale plant was Lavatera, a hollyhock-like plant which was used in the club's award-winning display at the Monterey County Fair.

The sale also featured miniature roses, house plants, heather and Irish yew trees.

Club members meet the second Wednesday of each month at the Armed Services YMCA building at Webster and El Estero, Monterey.

"It's a national organization which was first started in 1932," said George. "It first started in Ohio and now there are clubs in every state of the union. Next year we'll celebrate our 50th anniversary, so we're planning special events."

Those events will include plant propagation and a workshop for the public.

Club president is George Kasynski.

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Chapter of the Men's Garden Clubs of America held a plant sale last Saturday. Emil C. Schmidt (left) and Fred Bell show samples of the many plants which were available to the public.

THE WEDDING PARTY surrounding new bride and bridegroom, the former Joni Lauren Sarakon and George Wesley Bishop, from left, are Mary Elizabeth Thomas, Lynette Stepulla, Mary Jo Stercula, Helen Soroka, Andy Sarakon (the bride's father), Jerry Mapp, Rich Cannady and Galen S-K Lowe.

Deborah Williams weds Terrance James Lacoma

Deborah Maria Williams and Terrance James Lacoma, both of Carmel, were united in marriage in a 1 p.m. ceremony on Sept. 12.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William John Williams of Monterey. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lawrence John Lacoma and the late Mr. Lacoma of Vista, Calif.

The garden wedding was held at the Carmel Highlands home of Miss Kevin L. Roberts who was the bride's maid of honor.

Commissioner Richard Eldred performed the ceremony. Best man was Gregory S. Lindsey of Carmel.

The bride, a 1973 graduate of Seaside High School, was graduated from MPC in 1975 and studied nursing at Hartnell. She is employed as a parking/desk officer by the City of Carmel Police Dept.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Vista High School in Vista and Monterey Peninsula College. He was with the U.S. Army from 1967 to 1974 and is a police officer for the City of Carmel.

A reception followed the ceremony. After a honeymoon in Northern California, the newlyweds will live in Salinas.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE WESLEY BISHOP

Joni Sarakon weds Dr. George Wesley Bishop

Joni Lauren Sarakon of Monterey and George Wesley Bishop of Carmel were united in marriage at the Carmel Mission Basilica on Aug. 29. Father Joseph Conran officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Andy Sarakon of Pacific Grove and Dolores Sarakon of New Bethlehem, Pa.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Bishop of Columbus, Ohio.

The bride wore a cream-colored chiffon gown trimmed with Alencon lace and a traditional wedding hat with a blusher highlighted by a large white silk flower. Her bridal bouquet was white roses and mixed flowers.

Maid of honor was Helen L. Soroka of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Bridesmaids were Mary Elizabeth Thomas of Carmel, Lynette Stepulla of New Bethlehem, Pa., and Mary Jo Stercula of Trenton, N.J. The bridesmaids created their orchid-mauve Satinae gowns which featured cummerbunds. They wore gardenias in their hair which was styled by Darlene Helton of Carmel Crimpers.

Best man was Jerry Mapp of Monterey. Andry Sarakon of Pacific Grove was the bridegroom's attendant. Ushers were Rich Cannady of Monterey and Galen S-K Lowe of Los Angeles.

The wedding ceremony was interpreted in sign language by Louise Simpson, a friend and classmate of the bride at California State University, Northridge.

The bride was graduated from Redbank High School in New Bethlehem and Duquesne University in Pittsburgh. She works at the Carmel Center Animal Hospital as a technician and is also studying to become an interpreter for the deaf. She teaches a class in American Sign Language at UFM.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Ohio State University in Columbus and also the Ohio State School of Veterinary Medicine. He was a research veterinarian with the U.S. Army stationed in Denver, Co. He owns and operates the Carmel Center Animal Hospital and is also president of the Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula.

A champagne garden reception was held at the couple's future home at 6120 Brookdale Drive, Carmel. Along with the champagne, guests were treated to a buffet of veal and chicken with all the trimmings, wine and a three-tiered wedding cake.

CLUB SECRETARY George Webster arranges one of the 700 plants at the sale.

How the coach sees it

Padres fought gamely, but lost

By RICHARD MOLEN
Head Coach, Carmel H.S. Padres

Last Friday night, Carmel played Monterey High School to three scoreless quarters of football. Finally outmanned by a much larger school in the Monterey Bay League (Carmel plays in the Mission Trail Athletic League), we tired in the fourth quarter and lost 28-0.

The score was by no means indicative of how close the game actually was. Monterey did not put points on the board until late in the third quarter at a time when the Carmel team was extremely tired and ran out of gas. Our boys had been playing offense and defense for the whole game and we did not have the manpower to give them a rest.

The first half of the game was a see-saw defensive battle. Carmel moved the ball in the air, and if not for a few dropped passes, could have scored.

On two occasions—long gains on punt returns and on the opening kickoff in the third quarter—Nelson Holman was on his way for a touchdown when tackled by one last defensive man. The score was 0-0 at the half. Monterey knew they were in a football game.

We came out in the third quarter and threatened to score again. On the first play from scrimmage, Padre quarterback Brett Langley fired a beautiful pass to his brother, Brad, in the right flat and went all the way down to the Monterey 43-yard line. Langley passed again to flankerback John Franklin who carried the ball down to the Monterey 25-yard line. An incomplete pass and in interception ended the drive.

Carmel had one final chance to score. Moving the ball to the Toreador 8-yard line, Langley threw four incomplete passes and Monterey took over on downs.

Toreador scoring came on drives of 56 and 40 yards against a tired Carmel defense. The Padre offense, unable to move the ball, fumbled on the 5-yard line giving the Toreadors another opportunity to score, and they did. The final score of the game was a 96-yard touchdown run by James Eskridge which caught the Padre reserve defense out of position.

GENERAL COMMENT: "Needless to say I am very proud of our team. We played an excellent game for three quarters against a school much larger, with more players and greater depth. The Padres became tired and that resulted in the loss of the game.

"We are getting better each week and I am looking forward to a great season for the boys."

STATUS REPORT: "Things that pleased me were the statistics...Penalties—only 2 for 20 yards; No serious injuries; Yards passing—112 yards; The defense played a great game."

"Things I am not pleased with: our running game. We need work here. Even though we are primarily a passing team, we have to be able to move the ball much better than we have up to now."

THIS WEEK'S GAME: "Our game this week is with Morro Bay at Carmel High School, Saturday, Sept. 19. J.V. at noon; Varsity at 2 p.m. Because Morro Bay is so far away, I do not know much about their team. I do know we will be ready."

PLAYER OF THE WEEK: BRETT LANGLEY. "Brett passed for 112 yards and kept the offense moving. Brett is a fine football player with a fantastic attitude. It was difficult for me to pick a player of the week. The whole team played so well on both the offense and defense teams. They are impressive young men and it is a real pleasure to coach them."

OBJECTION to the size of the proposed Torres Pines condominium project outside the Carmel city limits was voiced during last week's council inspection by neighbor Marion Stevens (right), who spoke with co-owner of the project Masoud Yavari (left) and architect Donald Wald. Hearing on rezoning of the parcel will be held Sept. 30 by the Monterey County Planning Commission. (Alan McEwen photo)

CARMEL COUNCIL members with city staff and interested citizens visited the site of a proposed six-unit condominium project at Camino del Monte and Torres Street, just outside the city limits, before last week's council meeting. Council members decided to request that the county permit no more than three single-family units or three condominiums. (Alan McEwen photo)

Padre Parents meet, make plans

Carmel High School Padre Parents met Thursday, Sept. 10 at the home of Anne Roberts.

President Wendy Banks opened the meeting and turned proceedings over to CHS principal Marcia Kading.

Ms. Kading enthused about the great beginnings of the 1981-82 school year. She said a very positive attitude existed between faculty and students and she anticipated a successful school year for everyone.

Members listened to various reports from officers. Then a discussion was opened and plans made for the annual Back to School Night, scheduled Oct. 1.

Parents will follow their children's scheduled that evening, moving from class to class to meet with each teacher. The High School Jazz Band will perform and refreshments will be served by board members to launch a Padre Parents membership drive. Dues will remain at $5.

Board members also discussed the annual Wine Tasting and Silent Auction sponsored by the CHS Boosters Club. It is planned Sept. 26 at Sunset Center, following the San Lorenzo football game. A "spirit parade" from the stadium to Sunset Center will kick off the third annual Wine Tasting.

Members were reminded of the three Parents Who Care workshops which begin Sept. 17, and also of the first school dance on Sept. 19.

Prior to the November election, the board will cosponsor a "Meet the Candidates" night where school board hopefuls will address parents and interested members of the community. Plans were also discussed to sponsor potluck dinners for each academic department at the high school and to sponsor a national touring theater group that specializes in American history.

Padre Parents board meetings are the second Thursday of the month at 5 p.m. at the home of a board member. Because of a religious holy day, the October meeting will be delayed until the 15th at the home of Dottie Crivello on Berwick Drive.

For additional information on Padre Parents, phone publicity chairman Mary Rose Pott, 625-1677.

Library board to study new building

The board of trustees of the Harrison Memorial Library will study space configurations and functional requirements for the proposed library annex at 4 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 22.

Librarian Peg Richter said she will present several alternatives to the board for consideration concerning space requirements and which functions should be transferred to the annex from the library.

The following divers received awards for their performances throughout the year: Coaches' Award - Meredith May and Carrie Linkenbach; Most Improved - Bernie Villagas and Heidi Linkenbach.

Barracuda swimmers will be practicing until November. Competition starts up again in January. Persons interested in more information may call Phil DiGirolamo, head coach, 394-2108.

Free diabetes workshop at hospital Saturday

Community Hospital will offer a free public workshop for adult diabetics and their families on Saturday, Sept. 19, from 9 a.m. to noon.

The workshop, one in a series of monthly discussions on a variety of health topics, will be held in the hospital's main conference room.

Lola S. Steinbaum, M.D., will discuss the medical aspects of diabetes and review the latest research about causes, complications and treatment. Gail Robbins, R.N., diabetes nurse consultant, will discuss practical aspects of living with the disease, including diet, exercise, insulin injecting and urine testing.

Although the workshop will focus on adult onset diabetics, anyone may attend. There is no pre-registration.

For more information, phone 625-4505.

CVPOA membership still goes up

Membership in the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association continues to increase.

At the Sept. 9 board of directors meeting, membership was reported at 1,537—an increase over the membership total of 1,528 reported last month.

"We are getting big and strong," reflected President Jack Sassard, who noted that the CVPOA was founded in 1949 by a small group of property owners concerned about growth and development in the Valley.

"CVPOA is not opposed to growth and development in Carmel Valley," Sassard said. "Growth and change are inevitable. Our society would not survive without them. But we want controlled growth."

Sassard said the role of the CVPOA in months ahead will be to insure that the new Carmel Valley Master Plan is implemented to insure that water resources, wastewater treatment, traffic control and air and noise pollution criteria are enforced.

Report from Sacramento

Jobs for Youth

By SAM FARR, Assemblyman, 28th A.D.

Of all the jobs a working adult may have in his or her life, I suspect that the most memorable may well be the very first one.

I remember my first full-time job as a firefighter in the Las Padres National Forest. I was eager, full of energy and hopeful of the future.

Job prospects were a lot brighter then. The problem today is that many teenagers won't get a job right out of school, especially if they choose not to go on to college. In fact, the unemployment rate for young adults averages twice that of adults over 25. At the same time, school dropout rates, truancy and vandalism are up all over the state, and achievement is down.

Unemployment brings with it a sense of lowered self-esteem, of frustration and anger, and often, crime.

We spend billions for the benefit of those young people who will be our new doctors, engineers and attorneys. But considerably less is spent on programs in the schools to get graduates into the labor market in the "real world."

Last week, State Assembly Speaker Willie Brown appointed me and six other lawmakers to the Assembly Select Committee on Youth. This newly-formed panel will hold its first meeting during the fall legislative recess to focus on the employment and training needs of young people entering the job market.

I am excited about working on possible solutions to the young person's unemployment syndrome. Encouragingly, several firms, like Hewlett-Packard, Lockheed, Kaiser, Security Pacific and Wells Fargo, have started job programs for "marginal" high school students. The new panel will be taking a close look at the results of these innovative arrangements.

It is past time that we look for productive ways of involving these young people in their communities and in building their own lives. Our future depends on it.

The new committee will hold hearings in the Monterey Bay area in the coming months. If you have any ideas to help solve these problems, please contact me at (408) 646-1980.

Hospice sponsors two support groups

The Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula will present two support groups for cancer victims and their families.

Coping with grief following the death of a loved one will be the subject of a Bereavement Support Group which will meet twice each month on the second and fourth Thursdays. The next meeting is Sept. 24 at 3:30 p.m. at 700 Martin St., Monterey.

There is no charge for the program and anyone who would like to meet with other persons who are dealing with the problems associated with grieving are welcome.

Dr. Jerome Rubin, oncologist and founder of the Hospice, will be featured speaker at the Cancer Support Group which meets Tuesday, Sept. 22, 3:30 p.m. in the Fireside Room of the Carmel Presbyterian Church.

Patients, family and friends of cancer patients are invited to attend the meeting, which will cover current cancer treatments, daily health problems, feelings associated with having cancer and available community resources.

For additional information on the Hospice and its programs, phone 625-0666.

Eight-week course offered to help cancer patients

A free, eight-week course designed to help cancer patients and their families learn to live with that disease will be offered at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula beginning Monday, Sept. 21.

The educational program, called "I Can Cope," is co-sponsored by the hospital and the American Cancer Society.

Participants will learn about cancer, current treatments, daily health problems and nutritional needs. They will share common feelings about having cancer and discuss how to use available community resources and take active roles in their own care.

Instructors will be Joy Smith, R.N., and Sandy Kahn, a family therapist, along with guest speakers.

The course will be held in the hospital's main conference room every Monday, 7-9 P.M. through Nov. 9.

Pre-registration is required. To register, or for more information phone the American Cancer Society, 372-4521.

School board to hear report on property values

THE CARMEL Unified School District Board of Education is to receive a report on potential value of lease or sale of school facilities when it meets at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 22.

The report is intended to guide the board's decision on which school facilities—if any—to lease or sell because of declining enrollment and reduced revenues.

A revised enrollment projection for the district will also be presented to trustees to assist them to make a decision on possible closure of either the high school or middle school, and one elementary school.

The board has set a tentative date of Oct. 27 to decide on facilities use for the 1982-83 school year, but "not all decisions have to be made on that night," explained Supt. Bill Rand.

Three win seats on sanitary board

THREE directors of the Carmel Sanitary District — one incumbent and two new members — will take office in December without standing for election.

That's because only three people filed as candidates for three vacancies on the board, and therefore no election is required, according to the Monterey County Elections Department.

Paul Beemer of Carmel, who will complete a two-year unexpired term in November, will be seated automatically to a four-year term of office.

John M. Floyd of Carmel, retired, and David C. Tedrow of Carmel, a civil engineer, will also take office without an election. They will fill the seats to be vacated by Vernon Head and James Pruitt.

Enrollment figures for this year, plus revised enrollment projections, could make a big difference in how school facilities are used, Rand noted.

Initial projections forecast that only 1,723 students would be enrolled by 1985-86, as compared with 3,148 students in the 1974-75 school year.

"We have a few more students than we expected this year at the secondary level," Rand said. "We're still declining overall, but the question is how fast we're declining."

All meetings of the Board of Education are open to the public.

HOW TO BEAT THE FASHION BUSINESS ...AT ITS OWN GAME

At Bellissima! Carmel's newest boutique, you'll find an ally in your battle to outwit the trendy fashion business. We don't play their game.

Our emphasis is on daytime dresses in fashions and styles that will continue to please you. Knits, silks and light wools — fabrics you'll love this year. And next.

And we help you select styles and colors that really work for you. If something isn't just right, we'll tell you.

You'll find a choice selection of simply beautiful blouses, too. And a few imported hand-knit sweaters. All with an eye to enduring fashion.

Finding that wonderful something new for your wardrobe is serious business. Our game is simply making it fun.

Petpourri

Grooming is important

By JUDITH A. EISNER

JUDY MCCARTHY, owner of Suds 'n Scissors in Carmel Rancho Center, is forthright, knowledgeable and outspoken. She cares, really cares, about dogs.

Sometimes we wonder if it's important to stress the need to groom your dog regularly and check him for signs of skin disorders, parasites and foxtails. After talking with Judy, however, we believe that lack of home grooming may be one of the greatest mistakes pet owners make.

Judy's outspokenness is attributable to years of seeing horrors every day. She is typically blunt when she says, "Who says everyone has to have a dog? What makes people think a dog is necessary to have around if they can't be bothered caring for him?"

As a groomer, Judy works mainly on long-haired dogs: poodles, cockers, Afghans, Old English Sheepdogs, collies, etc. More frequently than not, the condition of their coats, when they are brought in for grooming, is deplorable.

"People think," she says, "that because they bring their dog in regularly—say every eight weeks—they don't have to do anything in between. The human equivalent would be a woman who visits the beauty salon every eight weeks for a haircut, shampoo and set and doesn't touch her hair with a comb, brush or water in between!"

To really make the point, imagine that same woman lying with her head on the ground and periodically rolling in a field full of burrs and weeds. Ridiculous, right? No one could live like that! But, insists Judy, they make their dogs do it!

NOT INFREQUENTLY, she receives a long-haired dog whose coat is so solidly matted that it cannot be penetrated with clipper or comb. The only thing to do in such cases is to shave the poor dog clear down to the skin—just as one would shear a sheep.

Even after years of grooming, Judy still cannot accept the condition of some of the dogs she receives. "I see them come in with oozing sores all over their bodies from eczema," she says, "or with running ears, or foxtails causing abscesses under their legs." Naturally, she sends them off to the vet with their shocked owners, who don't understand how such things happen.

On several occasions, Judy has encountered dogs who have had rubber bands around their neck or jaws. Usually, a young child will put a rubber band on a puppy and if it goes unnoticed, it can actually work itself into the dog's skin, causing severe damage and infection.

"People tell me they never noticed," Judy states. "How can you not notice a rubber band around your dog's jaw?"

Overgrown toenails are a common sight at the shop, where Judy often finds dog's dewclaws (the extra toenail on the inside of the leg) have grown around into curls, like ram's horns, for lack of attention.

Judy believes, as a result of her sad experiences with untended dogs, that people who live in the country—and that includes everyone in this area—should not have any long-haired dog unless he is fully aware of the coat care they require and is willing to devote daily time to grooming.

A miniature poodle, for example, should receive a half hour of thorough combing and brushing every day, in between regular bathing and clipping. Larger dogs require longer bouts with the brush.

Long-haired dogs must be checked thoroughly every time they run through a field or forest, for foxtails, burrs, ticks and anything else that clings to the coat.

Judy says, "Why not have a pointer or a boxer or any nice, short-haired dog where you don't have these problems? Why does everyone think he has to have a great big, hairy, hard-to-care-for pet?"

She also adds that there is thorough home grooming and not-so-thorough brushwork.

FIRST OF ALL, you should have the correct grooming equipment for your dog. There's little to be gained in working on a poodle's coat with a short, natural bristle brush, for example.

There is a wide selection of brushes and combs available, ranging from steel-toothed rakes to fine wire slicker brushes. Good grooming tools last for many years, so don't skimp on quality.

Once you have your tools, you're ready to begin.

To really groom a long-haired dog, his coat must be combed and brushed clear down to the skin. It isn't enough to spruce up the outer layer of coat, because the undercoat is left matted and unclear.

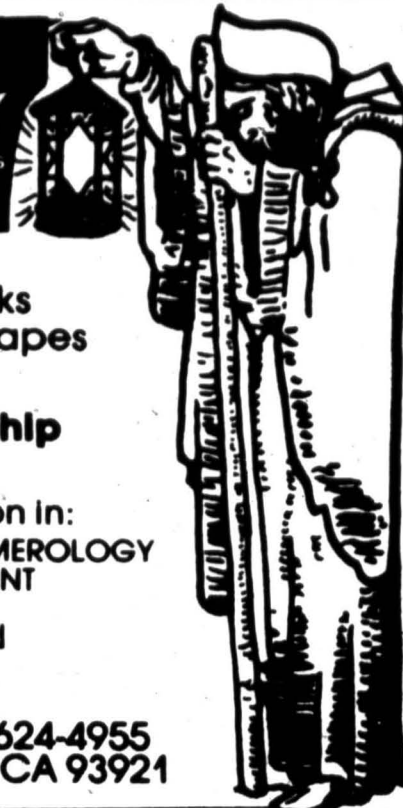

The dog should be groomed systematically, by sections. Gently brush the fine hair on the ears and throat; then, beginning with the neck and shoulders, brush out the hair, clear down to the skin. Separate any mats with a mat splitter or comb, or, if they defy treatment, cut them out with a pair of scissors.

Groom every part of the dog, including tail, underbody and legs. Check the insides of his ears, under his elbows and between the pads of his feet for foreign objects.

This is also a good time to swab out the inside of the dog's ears (not every day!) with a cotton ball dipped in alcohol if there seems to be an accumulation of ear wax. You don't have to dig way down; just wipe the ear out gently, cleaning all the convolutions of the ear flap or leather.

"Then, when you bring your pet in for professional grooming," says Judy, "it will be a pleasure to work on him."

Harry Callahan

Callahan featured at Weston Gallery

The Weston Gallery in Carmel is currently exhibiting the work of world-renowned photographer Harry Callahan.

Throughout his long career in photography Harry Callahan has been immensely influential as both artist and teacher. Born in Detroit in 1912, he began his involvement with photography in 1938. As a member of the Detroit Photography Guild, he met Ansel Adams and was strongly affected by his work and clarity of vision.

In 1946 he joined the Chicago Institute of Design, becoming the chairman of photography department in 1949. In 1961 he became the head of the photography program at the Rhode Island Institute of Design.

Callahan received a Guggenheim Fellowship in 1972; in 1978 he became the first photographer selected to represent the United States with an exhibition at the Venice Biennial.

Callahan's color and black-and-white photographs have been presented in more than 30 major one-artist exhibitions and have been included in numerous group shows.

A major monograph, Callahan, with a text by John Szarkowski, was published in connection with the 1976 retrospective exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art. During 1980 two major books were published documenting Callahan's work: Water's Edge and Harry Callahan: Color.

Among the public collections that include Callahan's photographs are the Art Institute of Chicago; the Center For Creative Photography at the University of Arizona, Tucson; the Metropolitan Museum of Art; the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston and the Victoria and Albert Museum, London.

Callahan presently lives in Providence, R.I. with his wife, Eleanor.

He is exclusively represented on the Monterey Peninsula by the Weston Gallery, Inc.

The Weston Gallery is on Sixth Avenue between Dolores and Lincoln, Carmel. For more information phone 624-4453.

Monterey Jazz Festival opens Friday

The world-famous Monterey Jazz Festival, now in its 24th year, will rock the Monterey Fairgrounds for three days and nights, Sept. 18-20.

Sarah Vaughan, Etta James, John Lee Hooker, Billy Eckstine, Cal Tjader, Tito Puente and Clark Terry are among the jazz greats who will appear at this sublime musical convocation.

The Jazz Festival has been sold out for two months; however it will be broadcast live in its entirety on radio station KUSP (89fm).

Under the guidance of founder and general manager Jimmy Lyons, the festival has become not only a prestigious international jam session, but also a consistent benefactor to the community in the form of grants to local musical groups and individuals, as well as to the Lyceum of the Monterey Peninsula, the Pacific Grove Library, and other organizations.

The schedule for the festival is as follows:

Friday evening, Sept. 18 — 8:30 p.m.: A Special Preview. 9 p.m.: Canadian Sons-Sets and friends, Philippine Jazz All-Stars, Bug Alley, Monterey Jazz Festival All-Stars, John Lewis, Connie Kay, Mundell Lowe, Marc Johnson, Cal Tjader, Clark Terry, Putte Wickman, Richie Cole, Ray Pizzi, Vic Dickenson, Bosco Pertovic, Joe Kennedy, Hi Lo's, Rob McConnell's Boss Brass Big Band.

Saturday afternoon, Sept. 19 — 1:30 p.m.: Playin' the Blues. Mark Naftalin's Rhythm and Blues Revue, Esther Marrow, John Lee Hooker and the Coast to Coast Blues Band, Willie Dixon and the Chicago Blues All-Stars, Etta James Band, James Cotton Band.

Saturday evening, Sept. 19 — 8:15 p.m.: Viva! Carnaval in Monterey, Batucaje, Richie Cole and Alto Madness, Tania Maria, Tito Puente and his Latin Percussion Sextet with special guests Cal Tjader and Poncho Sanchez, Flora Purim and Airtio and friends.

Sunday afternoon, Sept. 20 — 12:30 p.m.: Future Shock! Special Guest Appearance of the Winners of the Eleventh annual California High School Big Band and Combo Competition. Woodrow Wilson High School Big Band, Mills High School Combo, California High School All-Star Band under the direction of Bill Berry and Dr. Jack Wheaton, performing with special guests Rodney Franklin, Clark Terry, Ray Pizzi and Matt Catingub.

Sunday evening, Sept. 20 — 7:15 p.m.: Deja Vu and friends, Sarah Vaughan, Billy Eckstine, Monterey Jazz Festival All-Stars, Toshiko Akiyoshi/Lew Tebackin Big Band and a few added surprises.

For more information, phone the Festival Box Office in San Francisco, 415-775-2021.

Film series resumes at CV Library

The Friends of the Carmel Valley Library will resume its popular Friday night film series this week with a screening of The Shameless Old Lady. The film begins at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 18 at the library, 65 W. Carmel Valley Road.

In French with English subtitles, the story concerns an elderly lady who takes up a career of "gentle subversion" after the death of her husband.

Future Friday night movies will be:

Born Yesterday, Oct. 2; Odd Man Out, Oct. 16; Cat Ballou, Oct. 30.

The Corsican Brothers, Nov. 13; You Can't take It With You, Nov. 27; The Hound of the Baskervilles, Dec. 4; and an evening of shorts, including The Red Balloon, Dec. 18.

Admission is $1.50 for adults and $1 for children.

For further information phone the library at 659-2377

Festival sold out, but you can hear it on radio

Jazz buffs unable to attend the 1981 Monterey Jazz Festival, Sept. 18-21, will be able to tune in to the live concerts on KUSP radio, 89FM. The Jazz Festival has been sold out since July. The live broadcasts are the first time that non-commercial radio has covered the event.

Included in the 24th annual Festival lineup are Sarah Vaughn, The Toshiko Akiyoshi/Lew Tebackin Big Band, Tito Puente, Flora Purim and Airtio, John Lee Hooker, the Hi-Lo's and the Monterey Festival All-Stars.

In addition to broadcasting live performances from the Jazz Festival, KUSP will devote the entire weekend of Sept. 18-21 to jazz.

The station promises 56 hours of commercial-free jazz, including the entire Monterey Jazz Festival.

For further information, phone Santa Cruz 476-2800.

Friends of otters to convene

The Friends of the Sea Otter will focus on the engaging marine mammal's future at its annual meeting Saturday, Sept. 19 at 7:30 p.m. Members and friends will convene at 7:30 p.m. at Santa Catalina School, Mark Thomas Drive, Monterey.

Guest speakers and their topics include:

- Chris Harrold of the U.S. Santa Cruz Center for Coastal Marine Studies will discuss hopes of San Nicolas Island as a possible site for the first California sea otter translocation;

- Attorney Trent Orr of the Natural Resources Defense Council will provide an update on the Friends' lawsuit to protect the sea otters from offshore oil development;

- Julie Packard, director of the proposed Monterey Bay Aquarium, will describe the planned facility and focus on how the aquarium will benefit the sea otter;

- The critical threat posed to marine wildlife by the gill net fishery in Monterey Bay will be the topic of Gary Bogue of Defenders of Wildlife and the Monterey County SPCA Wildlife Center;

- U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service worker Ron Jameson will present an eye-witness account of a just-born sea otter pup and its mother.

- The 1959 color film, Sea Otters of Amchitka will provide a view of the rocky shores of the Aleutian Island more than 20 years ago.

As part of its annual meeting, The Friends of the Sea Otter will again sponsor an annual otter-viewing boat trip. The excursion is planned Sunday, Sept. 20 at 3:30 p.m. The boat will leave from Chris' Fishing Fleet, Fisherman's Wharf, Monterey.

The public is welcome, but advance reservations are required. Tickets, at $4 for adults and $3 for children, will be sold at the annual meeting Saturday evening.

They will also be on sale at Chris' Fishing Fleet after 3 p.m. Sunday.

Those who plan to board the boat are advised to bring binoculars and wear warm clothing.

For reservations, phone the Friends at 625-3290 between 11 a.m.-3 p.m. or Julia Wenner, 649-5661, by Friday, Sept. 18.

Friends of the Sea Otter is a non-profit organization with more than 4,200 members in every state and 14 countries. Founded in 1968, it works to protect the small population of California sea otters and their marine environment. The sea otter, now listed as a threatened species, still numbers fewer than 2,000 animals within a 200-mile-long range from Santa Cruz to Pismo Beach.

Civil rights activist to speak Thurs.

A report from Washington on civil rights and civil liberties in the Reagan era will be presented by the Monterey County Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Guest speaker Esther Herst's topic is No More Witch Hunts. She will speak tonight, Sept. 17 at 8 p.m. in the S.F.B. Morse Auditorium, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey. Admission is free.

Seven years ago, Esther Herst, a Chicago civil liberties activist, became the Washington, D.C. representative of the National Committee Against Repressive Legislation (NCARL). Today, she is the organization's executive director.

NCARL was founded in 1960 to launch a national effort to abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee, the public symbol of the witch-hunting of the McCarthy era. NCARL subsequently broadened its program to deal with other legislative issues dealing with First Amendment rights.

Ms. Herst won recognition as an effective civil liberties advocate in Washington. She played an important role in the abolition of HUAC in 1975 and in liquidation of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

She will bring an up-to-the-minute report on pending legislation and an in-depth personal knowledge of the personalities and forces in national politics, plus practical insights on what to do to counter the current wave of attacks on the Bill of Rights under the present administration.

For further information, phone 624-7562.

Museum plans fete Sunday

The Pacific Grove Museum of Natural History will celebrate its centennial, Sunday, Sept. 20, 3-5 p.m., with a party to which the public is invited free of charge.

The museum originated in 1881 from the Second Chautauqua Assembly. The Chautauqua was a scientific and literary group in Pacific Grove.

The museum presents periodic exhibitions of the natural history of Monterey County and maintains a garden of local flora.

Public attendance is steadily increasing, and classroom instruction is convened at the museum for school children from throughout the Monterey area.

A special exhibit of early memorabilia will be on display during the party.

The Museum of Natural History is located at 165 Forest Ave., Pacific Grove. For more information phone 372-4212.

Barbecue chicken Missouri style

I FIND IT a source of some irritation that chickens that have been simply roasted on a spit are often sold as "barbecued" chickens. Such chickens are called in French a la broche.

To my mind the term "barbecued" should be applied to foods that have been cooked before or over a fire while being basted with a sauce of one sort or another. And, ideally, the foods should be cooked over charcoal.

There are, of course, many kinds of barbecue sauces, the best known in this country being a blend of tomato ketchup and other seasonings such as garlic, soy sauce, honey and so on. I am not disdainful of this sauce, but it may tend to pall on the palate if it is overused.

Years ago, a friend who had made frequent visits to Missouri told me that one of the great specialties of a barbecue shack in the Missouri "boot heel" region was a secret barbecue sauce, but the owner adamantly refused to divulge it. After several days of experimentation, however, my friend arrived at a formula that his friends declared to be the equal of the barbecue specialists.

I have tried that sauce and it is excellent. It is a blend of cider vinegar, garlic, oil, a touch of chili powder, dry mustard, paprika and cumin. When I first glanced at the recipe, I was skeptical, believing that the pronounced vinegar flavor would give an unnecessary tartness to charcoal-grilled dishes.

Oddly, the vinegar flavor dissipates to a remarkable degree as the foods cook. I recently used the sauce on one-pound squab chickens that I found at my local poultry market. Cornish game hens, however, would work equally well. Because of the size of the birds, the cooking time is brief.

To complete the menu for these chickens, two kinds of salad are ideal, a sliced tomato and onion salad and a potato salad, French style.

The potato salad I have in mind is made with hot, freshly cooked potatoes sliced with or without skin, plus a sauce of dry white wine, oil and vinegar and chopped onions or shallots. A half cup or so of chopped parsley adds a final touch.

BARBECUED CHICKEN MISSOURI-STYLE

4 squab chickens or Cornish game hens, 1 pound each, split in half for broiling; salt to taste, if desired; finely ground black pepper; 2 tablespoons peanut, vegetable or corn oil; 3/4 cup cider vinegar; 1 teaspoon finely minced garlic; 1/2 teaspoon sugar; 1 tablespoon chili powder; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; 1 teaspoon paprika; 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin.

- (1) Preheat a charcoal grill for barbecuing.
- (2) Rub the chicken with salt, pepper to taste and oil.
- (3) Combine the vinegar, one-half teaspoon pepper, garlic, sugar, chili powder, mustard, paprika and cumin in a mixing bowl and mix well.
- (4) Place the chickens skin side down on a barbecue grill and cook about 10 minutes on one side, basting often with the sauce. Turn and continue cooking, basting often, on the second side about 10 minutes or until done.

Yield: 4 servings.

FRENCH POTATO SALAD

16 red, new, waxy potatoes, about 2 pounds; salt to taste, if desired; 1/4 cup dry white wine; 2 tablespoons distilled white vinegar; 6 tablespoons peanut oil; 3 tablespoons finely chopped shallots or 1/2 cup chopped red onion; freshly ground pepper to taste; 1/2 cup finely chopped parsley.

- (1) Combine the potatoes, water to cover and salt in a saucepan. Bring to the boil and cook 20 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Do not overcook. Drain and let stand until ready to prepare. The salad should be made while the potatoes are still hot or warm.
- (2) Peel the potatoes and cut them into quarter-inch-thick slices. There should be about six cups. Put the slices in a mixing bowl and sprinkle with the wine.
- (3) Combine the vinegar, oil, shallots, salt and pepper in a mixing bowl and blend. Add the potatoes and parsley. Blend well. If the salad stands, stir from the bottom before serving.

Yield: 4 servings.

Howard Matson of CV to autograph book

Carmel Valley author Howard Matson will be guest of honor at an autograph party Sunday, Sept. 20, 2-5 p.m. at The Open Book, 1184-F Forest Ave., Pacific Grove. Matson will sign copies of A Walk to the Village.

A Unitarian minister, Matson is equally well known as a social activist. After his retirement as a minister in San Francisco, he embarked on a second career in the migrant workers' movement, working with Cesar Chavez and the United Farm Workers.

Matson was also active in the civil rights movement and was the recipient, in 1980, of the Ralph Atkinson award from the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

A Walk to the Village is an anecdotal journal in which memories of significant people and events in the author's life are interspersed with lyrical descriptions of Carmel Valley scenes.

Appearing with her husband will be Rosemary Matson, who designed the book. The couple has worked as a team preaching and leading workshops on feminism, human rights and world peace.

Joining the Matsons will be June Rachuy Brindel, whose novel, Ariadne, a feminist retelling of the fall of ancient Crete, will be released this month by St. Martin's Press.

Matson will speak informally at 3 p.m., followed by Mrs. Brindel at 3:30.

The public is welcome to meet the authors and discuss their works with them.

For additional information, phone 373-1073.

T'ai Chi Chih demonstration Tuesday at Sunset Center

A free demonstration and discussion of T'ai Chi Chih is planned Tuesday, Sept. 22 at 6 p.m. in the Bingham Room of Sunset Center, Carmel. The public is welcome.

Discussion leader is Jane Woodley-Day, one of only 150 accredited T'ai Chi Chih teachers. A registered nurse, she has experience in both the medical and psychiatric fields.

She believes that T'ai Chi Chih is an exercise beneficial to men and women in all walks of life. It is a joyful experience that teaches serenity in the midst of activity and a physical discipline that teaches body and mental health. T'ai Chi Chih is also a relaxation method that makes people more effective at work and play.

A series of eight weekly T'ai Chi Chih lessons begins the following week. The cost for the eight classes is $24.

To register or for more information, phone Sunset Center, 624-3996.

Paul Cook to speak on USSR Sat.

A personal look at the USSR will be provided in a lecture, Prospects for Change: US-Soviet Relations in the Post-Brezhnev Era, presented by the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Bay Area on Saturday, Sept. 19 at 2:30 p.m.

Guest speaker is Paul K. Cook, who oversees and coordinates research and intelligence on the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe in INR, and serves as intelligence aide to the Special Advisor for Soviet Affairs to the Secretary of State. He also represents INR and the Department of State in various intelligence and inter-agency matters, and the U.S. in NATO.

During World War II, Cook served in the infantry and was attached to the Allied War Crimes Commission in Europe. He has served as an Intelligence and Research Specialist with the State Department. In 1967 he was posted to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow; in 1972 he became Deputy Director of the Office of Research and Analysis for Europe and was named Director of the Office of Research and Analysis for the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe in 1975. He assumed his present duties in 1979.

Cook frequently travels to the Soviet Union and to the Eastern European capitals. He recently returned from a stay in East Asia, including the People's Republic of China.

World Affairs Council programs are given in the S.F.B. Morse Auditorium of the Monterey Institute of International Studies, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey.

The public is invited at no charge. A social hour will follow Cook's talk in the adjacent Student Activities Building. Wine and cheese will be served; $1.50 will be charged for the refreshments.

Doctor to discuss herbal healing

Healing With Herbs and Vitamins is the title of a lecture to be given by Dr. Samuel S. Troyer on Wednesday, Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Carmel Holiday Inn, Rio Road and Highway 1, Carmel.

The lecture is the first of a series of ongoing health seminars presented by Cornucopia and the New Granary Natural Food Stores in celebration of their fourth anniversary.

Troyer is a chiropractor, consulting nutritionist and healer who believes in the treatment of the whole person. For any kind of treatment to be effective, a person must achieve a balance on the mental, physical and spiritual planes.

He has studied with Dr. Royal Lee, Dr. Bernard Jensen and Dr. Linus Pauling and has been granted a Life Credential by the State of California to teach nutrition and health sciences. He lives in San Diego.

A second lecture, Iridology Explained, is scheduled for Oct. 1 at the same location.

Both lectures are free; the public is welcome.

For further details, phone 625-1454 or 372-2533.

What's playing at the movies

American Werewolf in London: John Landis' film with many full moons, foggy moors, rotting corpses and howling werewolves. "The horror movie to end all horror movies." Rated R. At the Cinema 70.

Arthur: A comedy with Dudley Moore playing a happy millionaire drunk. Also with Liza Minnelli and John Gielgud. Rated PG. At the Center Cinemas.

Blow Out: Brian DePalma's latest film — a political thriller with John Travolta as a movie sound man who records the death of a politician which he believes to be murder. With Nancy Allen. Rated R. At the Regency Theatre.

Body Heat: A typical 40s film theme: Kathleen Turner is a sexually overpowering woman who influences a weak man, William Hurt, to become a killer. Richard Crenna plays the husband. Set in a small town in Florida. Rated R. At the Valley Cinema.

The Cannonball Run: Inspired by a real-life transcontinental auto race, from Darien, Conn. to Redondo Beach. The contestants include Burt Reynolds as the captain of a Dodge van disguised as an ambulance, Dom DeLuise as his maniac mechanic, Farrah Fawcett as their "patient," Roger Moore who thinks he's James Bond, and Dean Martin and Sammy Davis Jr. disguised as priests. Rated PG. At the State Three Cinemas.

Continental Divide: John Belushi plays an investigative reporter who is assigned to interview a reclusive scientist (Blair Brown) on a mountaintop. A love story. Set in the Colorado Rockies. Rated PG. At the Hill Theatre.

The Elephant Man: A very sensitive man is imprisoned in a grossly disfigured body. Traveling with a freak show, he is rescued by a surgeon who takes care of him in a Victorian hospital in London. Anne Bancroft plays a woman who befriends him. Sir John Gielgud is the director of London Hospital. At the Golden Bough.

The Exorcist: William Peter Blatty's now-classic demonic possession film returns. Linda Blair portrays Regan, a child who becomes possessed by the devil. Ellen Burstyn won an Oscar for her role as Regan's mother. Jason Miller and Max von Sydow are the priests who perform the exorcism. Nominated for 10 Academy Awards. Fri. midnight and Sat. afternoon at 1 p.m. At the Dream Theatre.

Eye of the Needle: A suspense adventure with Donald Sutherland as a Nazi spy in England during World War II, who has an ill-fated love affair with Kate Nelligan. Rated R. At the Dream Theatre.

First Monday in October: A dramatic comedy about the first woman justice, a conservative from Orange County, who clashes with a liberal justice on a controversial obscenity case. Stars Jill Clayburgh and Walter Matthau. Rated R. At the Carmel Village Theatre.

For Your Eyes Only: The latest James Bond adventure with Roger Moore as the super spy, and Carol Bouquet as a young woman who wants to avenge her parent's death. Many villains, chases and fights. Rated PG. At the Regency Theatre.

The Four Seasons: A romantic comedy about intimate friendships. Three middle-class, middle-aged couples take a vacation together, but relationships are strained when one of the men decides to leave his wife for a younger woman. Starring Alan Alda and Carol Burnett. Rated PG. At the Valley Cinema.

Hell Night: A thriller with Linda Blair of Exorcist fame. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

Maniac: A chilling thriller with Joe Spinell. A psychotic killer attacks women and scalps them. Rated R. At the State Three Cinemas.

9 to 5: Jane Fonda, Lily Tomlin and Dolly Parton conspire to retaliate against their boss because of his chauvinistic behavior. Dolly sings the movie theme, now a top 40 hit. Rated PG. At the State Three Cinemas.

Ordinary People: Robert Redford debuts as a director in this film based on Judith Guest's novel. The intense plot revolves around the breakdown of a Midwest family and subsequent repercussions. Starring Donald Sutherland and Mary Tyler Moore. Rated R. At the Golden Bough.

Private Benjamin: Goldie Hawn is cast as a comic heroine who joins the Army. Unaware of the Army regulations, she is in for a rude awakening. Rated R. At the Center Cinemas.

Raiders of the Lost Ark: Written by George Lucas and directed by Steven Spielberg. Harrison Ford plays Indiana Jones, an archeologist and adventurer who somehow survives while his adversaries are impaled on steel spikes, poison darts, dispatched by an airplane propeller and even melted while competing to find the Ark of the Covenant. Rated PG. At the State Three Cinemas.

Rocky Horror Picture Show: A stereotype horror/science fiction movie about the sexual confusion of two normal teenagers and a transvestite from another planet. Sat. midnight show. At the Dream Theatre.

Tell Me a Riddle: Lee Grant directed the film version of Tillie Olsen's award-winning novella. An older couple discovers, after years of marriage and waning affection, rekindled feelings of love for each other. Starring Melvin Douglas and Lila Kedrova. PG. Sat. at 3:30 p.m. and Sun. at 1:30 p.m. At the Dream Theatre.

Two hikes for Sierra Club

Two hikes are on the outing calendar of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club this weekend. All interested persons are welcome to join the excursions.

Fine views of the mountains and sea are promised on a hike to Garnet Beach on Saturday, Sept. 19.

The route climbs a ridge, then drops down to the pink sand beach. After lunch, hikers will walk along sea terraces back to their cars. The hike is termed moderate and will cover about seven miles with a sharp elevation gain of 600-700 at the start.

Bring windbreaker, lunch, water and boots to the Brinton's parking lot, Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road at 8:30 a.m.

For further details, phone leaders Rudd Crawford, 372-6626, Bea Greenwalt, 649-5279 (evenings), or Kathy Besag, 646-0439 (evenings).

On Sunday, Sept. 20, an easy-to-moderate hike through Del Monte Forest is planned.

The hike will start near Huckleberry Hill, wander down to the shore where hikers will lunch and return to the starting point. Total distance is approximately eight miles with about 600-foot elevation loss and gain.

Bring lunch, water and

Slavic program at Asilomar

Russian poet Alexei Tsvetkov and Polish sculptor Anna Debska are among the many Slavic artists, writers and performers who will appear at a cultural program Monday, Sept. 21, 7:30 p.m., at the Asilomar Conference Center in Pacific Grove. The public is invited.

The event is presented in conjunction with the national convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Slavic Studies, meeting at Asilomar Sunday through Wednesday.

Other participants include Russian sculptor Ernst Neizvestny, who will discuss his Tree of Life project, and Russian violinist

Mark Kashper, now with the Los Angeles Symphony.

Poets Dane Zatec, Miodrag Pavlovic, Aleksandar Petrov and Vlada Urosec from Yugoslavia will present their work, as well as San Francisco's Dorothy Barnhouse.

A reception will be held afterwards. Slavic paintings, sculptures, prints and other art will be displayed Monday night and throughout the convention.

The Asilomar Conference Center is at 800 Asilomar Ave., Pacific Grove, at the end of Highway 68; or take the Asilomar exit off Highway 1. For more information, phone 372-8016.

Dance, tree films to be screened

The 1981 edition of the Brown Bag Cinema premieres today, Sept. 17 at 1 p.m. in Leonard Carpenter Hall, Sunset Center.

Sponsored by the center, guests are invited to bring a brown bag lunch to the Chapman Room at noon. Coffee is on the house. At 1 p.m., viewers move to Leonard Carpenter Hall for the films.

Life and Death of a Tree, a National Geographic Society film, examines the role of a stately oak tree in supporting various forms of life while it ages and ultimately dies.

Ballet star Arthur Mitchell appears in Rhythmetron, dancing with the acclaimed Dance Theater of Harlem.

The film introduces the ABC's of ballet. Mitchell explains the basics of ballet in terms of daily activities, sports and popular dance steps. In the final segment of the film, the company performs three works choreographed by Mitchell.

Rhythmetron has won a blue ribbon at the American Film Festival, a Gold Hugo at the Chicago International Film Festival; and the Ohio State Education Award.

Brown Bag Cinema presentations are free. For further information, phone 624-3996.

Backgammon

Too good to double?

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You are White in the diagrammed position, and it is your turn to roll. Should you double?

Your position is so much better than Black's that he will surely resign if you double. You can therefore make sure of an average of one point per game by doubling when your position is so good.

Can you expect to average more than one point per game by playing on without doubling? You can do so only if you have a fine chance to gammon Black and a very low chance of losing.

Do you expect to win four games out of five, with one gammon among those four wins? If so, you would win three single games and one gammon for a total of five points; but you would lose at least one point on the game that Black wins. Your net score would be less than the five points you could get by doubling.

If you expect two of your four victories to be gammons, you are still better off doubling. Your four wins would come to six points, and your loss should average close to two points since he may well be in position to double. Your net score after five games of this kind should be between four and five points. If you doubled, you would get five points.

Do you expect to win nine games out of ten from such a position, with three gammons among your nine wins? If so, your nine wins will earn you 12 points, and you should lose nearly two points for your one loss. Your net is only a fraction of a point more than the ten points you could get by doubling ten times.

In short, you can't expect to increase your profit very much by playing on without a double. If you double, Black may be optimistic enough to take the double, and then you should average substantially more than one point per game.

Whaling Station Inn

Monterey, California

Tulip-shaped chandeliers and bentwood furniture are a decorative counterpoint to the Whaling Station's functional open hearth. Here, many of owner John Pisto's house specialties are broiled "just as the customer ordered." All are enhanced with the natural zest of wild herbs, which the owner gathers in the nearby Monterey hills. This Roasted Pacific Red Snapper, for instance, is memorable for its taste of wild thyme and fresh anise mingled delicately with Pernod and Cognac.

ROASTED PACIFIC RED SNAPPER

2 3-pound or 4 1 1/2-pound red snappers, cleaned and scaled, heads on 8 small cloves garlic
1/4 cup olive oil
1 teaspoon fresh or 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
1 1/2 cups fresh anise tops or fennel, if available, or
1 tablespoon aniseed
2 cups fish or chicken broth
4 ounces Pernod
2 ounces Cognac

Trim fins from fish. Insert garlic into fish backs. Brush inside and outside of fish with olive oil; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Sprinkle outside of fish with thyme; fill fish cavities with fresh anise or aniseed. Place fish on an oiled rack in a roasting pan. Mix broth, Pernod, and Cognac; pour into pan under fish. Cover tightly with aluminum foil. Bake in a 475° oven for 15-25 minutes, depending on fish size. Remove foil and bake 10 minutes longer. Serve fish with pan juices and garnish with parsley. Makes 4-6 servings.

Walker Evans exhibit to open

An exhibition of photographs by Walker Evans, considered one of America's most prominent and profound documentary photographers, opens Monday, Sept. 14 at the Hartnell College Gallery, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas. The collection of 56 prints will remain on view through Oct. 2.

The exhibit provides a survey of Evans' work from the 30s and 40s, ranging from his earliest vest pocket prints, to unpublished photographs from his well-known Subway series of 1940, when he traveled with a concealed 35mm camera.

Evans' early friendship with Ben Shahn and James Agee were important to his career. The famous photographs published in the American Photographer and Let Us Now Praise Famous Men (written by Agee), were made for the Farm Security Administration during an intensely creative 18 months beginning in late 1935.

These commissions were intended to document the plight of the rural poor and stress the accomplishments of the New Deal. They provided Evans and other photographers with unparalleled opportunities to make truthful, intelligent photographs free from the constraints of commercialism and editors.

Throughout his career, Evans' humble and ordinary subject matter contrasted with the ennobling power of his images which illustrate the quality of the human experience and provide a personal visual history for many Americans.

The Hartnell exhibit includes 46 prints from the permanent collection of the Museum of Contemporary Art, Chicago. Ten of the images are from the Library of Congress Prints and Photographs Division, which has preserved thousands of prints and negatives produced by the photography unit of the Farm Security Administration.

The exhibit is being circulated nationally by WAAM/The Art Museum Assn., with the assistance of a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Hartnell College Gallery is open 10 a.m.-4 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

For additional information, phone Gary Smith, Salinas 1-758-8211, ext. 261.

Benefit golf match Friday

Allen Funt, creator of television's famous Candid Camera, will be guest celebrity at a unique benefit sporting event in Salinas.

The Open Heart Open Golf Tournament will be played Friday, Sept. 18 at Corral de Tierra Country Club.

The tournament, now in its fifth year, is sponsored by Golden Gate Airlines to benefit the American Heart Association, and is intended to demonstrate that persons who have suffered heart disease can participate in active athletics.

Many of the entrants have had heart attacks or heart surgery, although the event is open to any golfer interested in supporting heart research and education.

The Open Heart Open originated in Oregon and spread to Utah, Colorado, Iowa, Nevada and California.

The Central Trails chapter of the American Heart Association was the first unit in California to organize an Open Heart Open, an event which has become a popular tradition with many local golfers.

Professionals from this area will join the tournament players on the course.

During its first three years the local tournament raised about $7,000 per annum. Last year it netted $14,000.

The Open Heart Open begins at noon and concludes at 6 p.m. with a no-host cocktail party and a 7 p.m. awards banquet.

The public is welcome to attend the tournament at no charge. For more information phone the American Heart Association, Central Mission Trails Chapter, 372-0485.

Corral de Tierra Country Club is on Highway 68 between Monterey and Salinas.

Kiwanis Auction Sunday

The annual fund-raising auction of the Kiwanis Club of Monterey will be held Sunday Sept. 20 at 2 p.m. in the De Anza Ballroom of the Monterey Conference Center, 1 Portola Plaza, Monterey.

The event is designed to raise funds for support of Monterey civic projects for the coming year.

A wide variety of services and all-new merchandise will go to the winning bidders.

For example: Seiko watches and 1/2-carat diamond earrings from Goldsmith Jewelers; soft contact lenses with full service from optometrist Fred Duffie; prime beef sirloin from Durham Meat Company.

Also, an aerial sightseeing tour of the Peninsula for three people from Monarch Aviation; a one-year membership in AAA from California Automobile Association; a 15-week weight loss program from The Weight Place.

Other items to be auctioned are a 450 X reflector telescope from Zaccagnini Enterprises; bronzed antique water meters from Cal-Am Water; a home video arcade from Edgewater Packing Company; a case of assorted wines from Monterey Peninsula Winery; and a gold-framed mirror from French Glass.

In addition, many original works by well-known artists will be auctioned as well as foods, lodgings trips, tax preparation services, windows, sewing machines and shock absorbers.

The charity auction begins at 2 p.m., with a "silent auction" preceding the live version. Auction invitations are available from Kiwanis members at the Monterey Savings Alvarado Street office.

The public is welcome to attend. There is a $10 admission fee which includes refreshments and which will be credited toward any bid.

For more information, phone Wil Goodrich, Monterey Savings, 375-1500, ext. 231, or 422-5268.

DUST EATERS

Harold Lyon is one of the few who restricts his subject matter to the Western ranch scene as it is today. Thus, his paintings of cowboys, horses, and cattle in their actual environment have an immediacy and an authenticity that "historical" works cannot convey.

An ounce of prevention

Don't panic! Not everything you can eat is bad for you

By RALPH RETHERFORD, M.D.

YOU KNOW IF you read the papers and watch the TV news every day you hear mostly about the bad things that are happening in the world: violence, robberies, rapes, assassinations, etc. It doesn't take long after a steady diet of this for people to start thinking that the world is a very dangerous place indeed. Many people become quite paranoid, fearing that they will become a victim if they venture out on to the streets alone.

Actually, it has been shown that the vast majority of Americans live their entire lives without ever having a violent act perpetrated against them. But because it is violence that makes the daily news, many of us leave our TV sets or newspapers with the mistaken impression that we are surrounded by violence, when in reality our environment is quite safe.

The same thing applies with health issues. The fact that carrots are good for you never makes the headlines. But when someone finds out that broiling a piece of beef causes cancer-causing substances to form on the beef, this is definitely newsworthy material. So the American public is barraged with a steady stream of discouraging facts about how one thing after another is bad for them.

All too frequently, people begin experiencing a sense of frustration and begin to feel that everything is bad for them and predictably they throw up their hands in disgust and decide to go right ahead eating or living the way they were because they don't know what else to do.

The reality of the situation is that not everything is bad for you. Even if you were to eliminate all the foods that we know have negative effects on your health, you still would have a tremendous variety of delicious foods to choose from.

So, HOW DO WE DEAL with these feelings of frustration? The first thing to do is to take a look at yourself as you read this article and see if you might have experienced some of these feelings of frustration. If you are normal, you have probably had at least some of it, as it is a completely normal human reaction.

If you discover that you do have some of these feelings, you are now in a position to deal with them and rise above them. In dealing with these feelings, I think it is helpful to take a look at the historical context that we find ourselves in.

Our traditional American diet developed and evolved gradually over the past 200 years. The types of foods we eat and the food preparation techniques that we use were not developed because they would prevent disease. In fact, while our dietary customs were evolving there was very little knowledge about the relationship between foods and disease. Rather, our dietary likes and dislikes developed around the availability of certain types of foods and what appealed most to our palates.

Unfortunately, what we have found out is that what appeals to our palates is not necessarily good for us.

Now, we Americans find ourselves in a time of rather painful reassessment. Modern science is gradually unmasking the parts of our diet that result in various diseases that affect us all too commonly as we grow older. This process is necessarily painful as no one likes to give up his favorite traditional foods, but it is a process that this generation of Americans must begin to go through if our national health is to improve and indeed, if our expenditures on health care are not to bankrupt us.

'Modern science is gradually unmasking the parts of our diet that result in various diseases that affect us all too commonly as we grow older.'

So cheer up! The good news is that we are finding out what things in our diet may make us sick if we eat them over long periods of time and we now at least have some control over our fate. The rest of the good news is that there are many foods that we can still eat and many exciting new recipes to which we can.

So the next time you hear one of your friends complaining about the fact that everything is bad for you nowadays, give him a gentle reminder that that's not really true after all.

Until next week . . .

Barbara Sutton

Barbara Averill Sutton, a Carmel Valley resident since 1964, died Sept. 5 after a long illness at her home at Carmel Valley Manor. She was 70.

Born in Portland, Ore., Mrs. Sutton was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority while attending St. Helen's Hall in Portland and the University of Washington in Seattle. She was also a member of the Casa Abrego Club in Monterey.

She lived in Atherton for 30 years before moving to Carmel Valley.

Survivors include her husband, Reuel R.; a daughter, Robin Ann, of Menlo Park; a son, Reuel A., of Pacific Palisades; and three grandchildren.

At Mrs. Sutton's request, no services were held.

Evelyn R. Sickels

Evelyn Ray Sickels of Carmel, author and editor of children's books, died Sept. 6 at Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital after a brief illness.

Deaths

ness. She was 86.

Miss Sickels wrote and conducted weekly radio programs for children from 1936 to 1948 and was involved in similar programs in the early days of television.

Her Anthology of Children's Literature was published in five editions. She was a reviewer for The Saturday Review of Literature and The Horn Book, and editor for Encyclopedia Britannica, a contributor of reviews and short stories to other magazines and journals, and a teacher and lecturer on children's literature.

She won the Grolier Medal for her contribution to children's reading in 1959.

Survivors include two nieces, Mrs. Frank G. Ryder of Batesville, Va., and Mrs. Herbert A. Beyer of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., three grandnieces and three grand-nephews.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggested that instead of flowers memorial contributions be made to the Indiana University Foundation, Bloomington, Ind. 47405, for its Evelyn Ray Sickels Award, given annually to an outstanding Graduate Library School student who intends to work in the field of children's literature.

O.C. Dassonville

Olive C. Dassonville, a resident of Carmel for 34 years, died Sept. 7 at Pacific Grove Convalescent Hospital after a period of failing health. She was 88.

Mrs. Dassonville was a school teacher on an Indian reservation in northern British Columbia and in Sutter County. She also was an accountant for the state of California.

She was a member of the Order of Eastern Star of Marysville and All Saints' Episcopal Church of Carmel. Her husband Leon died in 1946.

Survivors include her daughter, Nancy Goss of Carmel; sister, Winifred Saunders of British Columbia; a brother Frank Bowen of British Columbia; and two grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Memorial contributions may be sent to the donor's favorite charity.

Father Farrell's wisdom

Try to love those under your own roof

Invocation at the Rotary Club Meeting
June 17, 1981

Oh Lord, you have told us to love our neighbor so many times that we do not listen to you anymore. Perhaps it is easier to love neighbors who live on the other side of town, in another state or nation than it is to love those who live next door or under our own roof. For example, it is so much easier to love the Rotary presidents of Monterey, Carmel Valley or Pacific Grove than it is to love the one to whom we have been subjected to each week for the past year. However, realizing that his reign of terror and his indiscriminate use of the "fine" as a sharpened guillotine will soon end, we now can spare him a modicum of tolerance.

We expect our families and our close friends to be perfect. We become upset and hurt when they prove to be human and just as fallible as we are. We lean on them when we should be standing on our own two feet. We turn them off when we should be listening.

Oh Lord, please give us this grace, the wisdom and the understanding to accept our friends when they are "acting out." Lord help them to accept us when we are behaving like heels. May we shut up when we are annoyed and may we speak the right words at the right time.

Oh Lord, deliver us from our proclivity to close our mind, open our mouths and to succumb to the "hoof and mouth" syndrome. Amen.

HORSES NEEDED

Rancho Laureles Equestrian Center is in need of several school horses

If your children have gone off to school and you find yourself with a horse in the backyard, we may be able to offer a happy alternative.

Our school horses receive excellent care. They are well fed and-groomed, have their feet tended to and receive any necessary veterinary care. They are exercised regularly and kept fit, but are never over-ridden.

The horses must be safe enough for beginners, basically gentle and well-mannered and serviceably sound. They may be trained English or Western. Age is not a factor if the horse is healthy.

If you are interested in learning more about the possibilities of leasing your horse to us, please phone Doug Downing or Judy Eisner at

CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA ORDINANCE NO. 81-25

AN ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING THE DEFINITION OF THE TERM "TRANSIENT OCCUPANCY"

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN as follows:

Section 1. Section 1302.91 of the Municipal Code is amended to read in its entirety as follows:

1302.81 TRANSIENT USE OF DWELLING UNITS PROHIBITED IN ALL ZONING DISTRICTS:

a. PURPOSE: It is the purpose of this Section to preserve and enhance the residential character of the City. The uncontrolled transient use of dwelling units or any part thereof would severely damage the character of the City by increasing disproportionately the amount of area devoted to visitors, as opposed to residents. Dwelling units as used herein include all multiple family dwellings, condominiums, apartments, cooperative apartments, and single family dwellings.

b. TRANSIENT OCCUPANCY: With the exception of non-paying relatives, non-paying friends and non-paying guests of the owner and non-paying housekeepers, any person who occupies or is entitled to occupancy of a dwelling unit or any part thereof by reason of concession, permit, right of access, lease, license or other agreement, written or oral, for a period not exceeding thirty (30) calendar days or less counting portions of days as full days is a transient occupant. Occupancy or entitlement to occupancy by a transient occupant creates a transient occupancy. Entitlement to occupancy for more than thirty (30) days but actual occupancy for less than thirty (30) days shall not create a transient occupancy. Housekeeping is looking after a dwelling unit while the owner is away.

c. TRANSIENT OCCUPANCY OR DWELLING UNIT: UNLAWFUL: Transient occupancy of any dwelling unit or any part thereof is unlawful.

THE OTHER REALTOR

Many buyers, looking for a home, use the simultaneous services of two Realtors to locate their dream home. The theory is, since only the one who finds your home gets a commission, both Realtors will work harder.

We think we are already working harder to give you better and more competent service.

We'd like to be both of your Realtors, but we'd be happy to be your other Realtor.

THINKING OF SELLING?

List with us. We're open 7 days, 9-6, which means a Realtor is always available to answer a Buyer's calls.

BIG SUR ISOLATION attracts many. It's an independence of spirit. Those same people want a home they can redesign to make their own. This home in Sycamore Canyon offers over 7 acres, a two-bedroom, 1 1/2-bath residence with interesting possibilities for country living, and abundant water at $180,000.

ANOTHER BIG SUR possibility is a lot in Palo Colorado Canyon. You can hear Rocky Creek from any point, and it's close enough to the Peninsula to commute. $51,500, and the owner will consider financing.

COMSTOCK can mean two things — very cute or very solid. Our newest listing is both. South of Ocean Ave., the location is excellent, and the home would be ideal for vacations or your eventual year-around residence. Inside, the hardwood floors reflect the coved plaster ceilings. Outside, the extensive decks both up and down stairs provide the best kind of Carmel living. Being sold completely furnished, "Red Geranium" can be financed by the owners with 25% down at $375,000.

PACIFIC GROVE has a charm all its own, and this home fits. The large living room and three very large bedrooms all offer good living in a great location. Best of all, the owner is willing to finance at $215,000.

CARMEL VALLEY SUNSHINE on over an acre of ground, with the best kind of outdoor living available in this three-bedroom plus den home. With a hot tub in a deck off the master suite and an ideal location for a pool you could spend a day just swimming or tubbing and listening to the quiet. Sunny kitchen, warm and inviting family room, all on an ideal setting near Carmel Valley Ranch. $395,000.

TUCKED AWAY on a little-known section of San Carlos is a nearly-new home of contemporary design and immense excitement. The pine trees frame the canyon view, and there are many amenities such as a raised whirlpool tub in the master bathroom. With good financing available, it's sure to move quickly at $320,000.

THE OWNERS SAY SELL and have reduced the price of this home from $660,000 to $625,000. For that price you get the best view of the Pacific and Carmel Beach in Carmel, a new kitchen with butcher-block counters, two 1-bedroom suites with attached baths, red-oak floors that reflect the mahogany walls, and owner financing. Call now to see it.

REMEMBER YOSEMITE? No crowds, no smog. Oakhurst still is the way Yosemite used to be. We have a 100-acre parcel with its own lake, A-frame cabin, and owner financing at $395,000.

FRANKLY, the home described here is not for everyone, but if the idea of a distant ocean view, a seven-pool waterfall, a full-grown pine tree in the marble dining room, free-form decks, two 1-bedroom suites upstairs and a separate studio downstairs is enough to spark your interest, and the idea of a newly-lowered price interests you even more, perhaps you'd like to see the home called "Falconhurst." Just reduced from $290,000 to $269,000.

HIGH UP IN CARMEL WOODS, on 1/4 acre of lovingly groomed land, is one of the prettiest homes we have listed. Adobe bricks line the walkway from the ample parking to the redwood-deck entry. You probably would notice first the copper hood over the fireplace in the newly-carpeted living room, but there is a charming atrium to your right. To the left are both bedrooms, the master having its own sitting room. Extensive use of ceramic tile complement each room, particularly the complete kitchen with parquet floors. Lovely sunsets over the ocean view. $329,000.

ENTER through a gorgeous manicured garden to this 2-bedroom, 2-bath redwood hideaway. Excellent access from the house to secluded oak-rich patios. Cathedral-beamed ceilings, warm decor, and only 5 blocks to shopping. There are large assumable loans at $282,500.

Carmel Views

The View They Covet

Breathtaking views of ocean and mountains from every room. A well-designed, four-year-old home in "mint" condition. All on one floor, 3,250 square feet, with good areas for both formal and informal entertaining. Guests will dine regally in an 18x12 dining room, with its wet bar and massive fireplace. Four spacious bedrooms, generous decking and construction extras. Two furnaces, two water heaters, built-in vacuum system, and a three-car garage indicate that nothing was spared in the building. Call for an appointment to inspect this $415,000 beauty. BONUS — a large low-interest assumable loan AND owner financing.

IN CARMEL — REDUCED $34,000

This gracious Carmel residence is typical of the architecture of the 1930's — beam ceilings and real plaster, hardwood floors and spacious rooms. Two bedrooms (one a unique second-story retreat, one a master suite), a special solarium, a modern kitchen all grace a 1/3-acre site with landscaping reminiscent of an arboretum. Most desirable Hatton Fields location. Priced at $295,000 and owner will carry with 20% down.

A wonderful window on the world . . .

The trick to successful living by the sea is to be able to look out at the ever-changing ocean without having passersby look in at you. In this extraordinary house on Carmel Beach, the trick has been accomplished.

If you stand at the corner of 13th and Scenic, all you can see is a flying bridge, a spacious front deck, well-fenced, with great windows behind and more windows below. All around the house, which runs clear through from Scenic to San Antonio, are high board fences which keep it as cloistered as a monastery.

But inside! You enter at a ground level door and find short stairs leading up to the left and down straight ahead. The steps up bring you to an impressive 29 x 19 living room, faced toward the ocean, with wall-high picture windows opening to the "bridge" and the sea. The walls are paneled, a great fireplace dominates the far end, and a dining area is located at the left.

Through a pass-through counter is the well ordered, skylighted kitchen, squarely in the center of the house. A short corridor runs past it to the main bath (a glamorous chamber), the master bedroom at left, and a very private, paneled den (or family room, or 4th bedroom) at right. Sliding glass doors from both these rear rooms open to a perfect, all-weather patio completely secluded from outside view by the high fences and walls of the garage and house. If there's sun, you get it; if there's wind, it passes right over.

The down stairs go to a complete lower level: 2 large bedrooms under the "bridge" looking to the nearby beach; a second large bath; and a sizeable laundry room. All these areas, except the laundry, are carpeted, and they add to the feeling of space.

This is a premium location; very few places have anything like comparable views. It's almost 2300 sq. ft. and well maintained. If you'd like all of Carmel Bay in your front yard, this is the place. $595,000.

RIGHT NEXT to the third fairway of Monterey Peninsula Country Club's Dunes Course . . . an inviting and impeccably maintained home surrounded by lovely gardens and mature trees. It offers three bedrooms, two baths, plus living room with fireplace, dining room, and up-to-date kitchen. There are fine golf course views from most of the rooms, and you can watch the deer browsing in the forest. Quiet location on cul-de-sac. This home deserves your inspection — and you can see it Sunday at 11723 Arroyo. Call Hi Hennings at 649-3653 for gate clearance. $285,000.

TIMELESS CONTEMPORARY PRICE REDUCED

FABULOUS VIEWS of the ever-changing ocean and of the dramatic slopes of Mal Paso Canyon are yours forever from this handsome artist's home in Carmel Highlands. Meticulously maintained, this home offers three bedrooms and an interesting floor plan allowing you great flexibility to suit your own style of living. One bedroom, for example, along with the family room and fireplace, could be used as a separate suite. There are ocean views from two of the bedrooms, the kitchen and the living room, while the living room also enjoys canyon views. The motivated seller has reduced the price by a whopping $105,000 to $545,000 — and it's the investment of a lifetime!

MAY WE TEMPT YOU?

NEW LISTING. Situated on a quiet wooded street in Carmel, this delightful and solidly built home has been tastefully remodeled with just the right touches to make you want it for your very own! Stepping stones lead you through the attractively landscaped garden to the front door, where you're invited to contemplate a spacious area which naturally divides itself into living room with fireplace in the front, dining area in the center, and comfortable family room to the rear. To the side is a completely modern kitchen with everything you'll need for your convenience. Two bedrooms and two up-to-date baths, one suite with separate entrance and its own fenced mini-garden. New carpeting, new shake roof. Will the owner help you finance? Just ask! $269,000.

TRANQUILITY

IN A SECLUDED area off a quiet street, two blocks south of Carmel Plaza, we have a cozy two-bedroom home with den, just awaiting your own special touches. There's a garage for your car you'll never have to use, inasmuch as you're within steps of shopping, banks and bus. And when you want to relax after a stint of gardening, you'll find a hot tub waiting for you. Ask for "Foxy Pocket." $229,500.

South Carmel Hills With View of Mountains

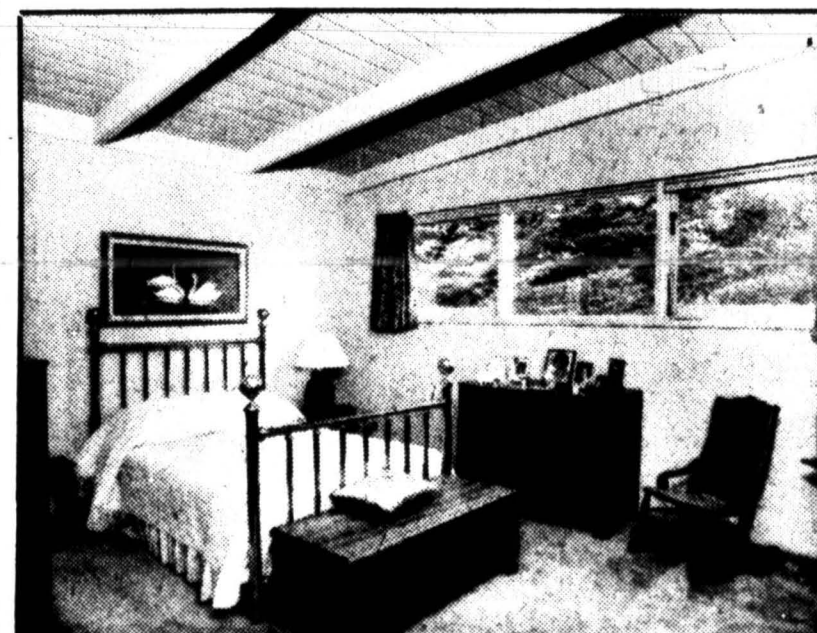

A circular driveway leads from a quiet cul-de-sac to this redwood home, contemporary in style and architect-adapted to a sunny, south-facing site bordered by cypress trees, and with great privacy provided by entry through a locked gate in the high, ivy-covered fence enclosing this patio.

In the living room, a window wall facing the patio also frames view of the Santa Lucia Mountains at the mouth of Carmel Valley. A beamed ceiling and paneling of cedar as well as a raised hearth fireplace add to attractiveness.

A high, beamed ceiling also is found in the kitchen planned for cooking efficiency and containing plenty of cabinets. Off it are a dining alcove, also a laundry closet. Stove, refrigerator, washer and dryer go with the house.

Carpeting, paneled walls and more beamed ceilings enhance the area embracing the master suite, also another bedroom and bath as well as a den (third bedroom) with an outside entrance, too. A double carport featuring a wall of storage closets increases livableness of this well maintained home conveniently close to Carmel High School and near to downtown Carmel and the Valley entrance shopping centers.
